What Is Coming?
A No-Plan Government.
Why Not 100 Per Cent Tax?
Goethe's Last Words.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 23

THE PHILOSOPHICAL photographer from Frank B. Shutt's Miami Herald would tell you ordinarily that he has not been out of Florida for 10 years, would like to go to Wisconsin for just one first-class snowstorm, then come back to Florida.

Just now he is inclined to discuss things generally and asks:

"What is it all coming to?"

THE DAY'S NEWS in the Miami Herald and other papers makes many ask:

"What is it all coming to?"

Freakish March tornadoes killed at least 300 persons in five southern states Monday, according to the Associated Press. Hundreds were injured by mysterious "twisters" that cut off the side of a strong building as neatly as a giant knife could cut it.

THAT REPRESENTS nature doing what she can to imitate men, organized for destruction.

News that stands next to the story of tornado destruction tells of plague, hunger and remorseless killing in Shanghai. Peasants are eating the bark of trees in their desperation.

Smallpox, unchecked, is raging.

In Ohio labor troubles threaten.

BUT THE MOST serious condition exists in the Congress of the United States, where some small-sized men, with no thought in their minds except RE-ELECTION, are willing to trade everything for votes.

They forget, in their feeble provincial imitation of real radicals, that they may trade themselves out of a job permanently.

The sort of thing that they are imitating, in Russia and elsewhere, does not hire half-baked incompetents at $10,000 a year each.

JUST AT PRESENT this big government, like a car off the track, is zig-zagging through space, not quite certain in what direction it is going.

When a boy makes a small stone skip on a pond it matters little whether it turns left or right.

But it does when the greatest, richest country in the world imitates the skipping stone and pursues its career without a plan.

Our problem is lack of employment, and while feeble, futile efforts are made to solve that problem, fools invent a tax system that would discourage all enterprise, and make lack of employment greater than ever.

UNDER OUR system, the individual may lead his life and pursue happiness in his own way, even when his happiness involves making more money than he needs.

In the course of his enterprises he employs other men, who in turn develop their ideas of happiness, and pursue their plans.

Let half-baked law-makers, in a competitive system such as ours, say to the individual:

"You may initiate enterprises, accumulate profits, but we shall take the profits from you as fast as you get them."

And enterprise will soon die.

What will the great minds of Congress tax, after that happens?

IT SHOULD NOT be forgotten that things happen suddenly, and when they have happened it is not easy to undo them.

Our slump, for instance, came as suddenly as one of those "twisters" striking at the Southeastern territory, and as mysteriously.

But there are worse things than slumps. One of them is tampering and experimenting with a system of government, when you haven't prepared any substitute for that system.

For the safety of the many, their regular employment and regular food, this country needs to continue along old-fashioned lines, at least until it shall have developed material for some of the new-fashioned lines.

WE HAVE NOT the submissive, docile population that would permit such operations as Stalin carries on in Russia, all obeying the crack of one lash, EVERYBODY TAXED ONE HUNDRED PER CENT ABOVE WHAT HE ACTUALLY EATS AND WEARS.

We have no signs of such power in one individual as Mussolini possesses.

And suppose we did develop such men, instead of our mush and milk type, there is something in the American people that would not take kindly to the statement:

"There has been too much prattle about liberty, too much nonsensical talk about freedom of the individual. Henceforth you listen to what I say, and OBEY."

THE WORLD remembers now the one hundredth anniversary of Goethe's death. And this country should remember especially the last words that Goethe uttered:

"MEHR LICHT."

"More light."

His eyes were closing, the light leaving them forever. But ours are open, light is abundant, there is no reason why we should not find our way, intelligence guiding us.

FOR A PLEASANT change from speculating and guessing, if you will have left any of that mysterious product called "currency," this would be a good time to visit Goethe's beautiful country. The Germans are arranging Goethe festivals at Wei-

BRITAIN HOLDS IRELAND TO OATH

3 STUDENTS SHOT IN ROW OVER GIRL

Kidnaping' of Dance 'Queen' At University of Missouri Ends in Campus Battle

COLUMBIA, Mo., March 23.—(AP.)—Three students of the University of Missouri were shot, and one of them seriously wounded, last night as the aftermath of the "kidnaping" Saturday of a girl student who had been chosen "St. Pat's Queen" for the engineering school's annual dance.

Miss Butterfield

Frank Luckey, of Columbia, was in a critical condition from a bullet wound in the stomach, and Jerry Cebe, of St. Louis, captain-elect of the university wrestling team, was suffering from wounds in the arm and leg. A third student, Bus Love, of Jefferson City, Mo., was slightly wounded by a bullet that grazed his leg. They were all students in the school of engineering.

Burnis Frederick, of Union Star, Mo., a student in the school of law, was quoted by Prosecuting Attorney Franklin E. Reagan as admitting he fired the shots, also was taken to a hospital suffering from a possible fracture of the skull, inflicted, he said, by a group of students who attacked him near the university campus just before the wounding of the three students.

CLIMAX TO FEUD

The shooting was the climax of a feud of long standing between students of the engineering and law schools. Last Saturday afternoon, Miss Mary Butterfield, of Kansas City, who was to have been crowned "St. Pat's Queen" at the engineering school's dance, was "kidnaped" as she was leaving her sorority house and was held captive until almost midnight, when she was returned to the campus too late for her coronation as queen.

Prosecutor Reagan said he was told by Frederick that as he and another student were leaving a private home near the campus last night a group of students, some of them wearing handkerchiefs over their faces, attacked him. The prosecutor said Frederick admitted firing six shots.

FOUR UNDER BOND

Frederick and three other law students had appeared before a justice of the peace Monday and asked that four engineering students be required to give bonds to keep the peace. None of the students wounded last night was among the four they named in the complaint.

Pending a hearing, however, the four students named had been required to give temporary bond of $100 each.

Kidnap Suspect Fugitive From Rockview 'Pen'

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., March 23.—(AP.)—Prosecutor Douglas M. Hicks announced today that George Malden, arrested last week after an attempt was made to enter the Highland Park home of J. Seward Johnson, wealthy surgical dressings manufacturer, has admitted he is Richard Cowan, of New Castle, Pa., who escaped from the Western Penitentiary, Rockview, Pa., July 22, 1931.

Hicks said the prisoner confessed his identity after being confronted with his criminal record, traced through his fingerprints on file in the New York Police Department and the Department of Justice in Washington.

RETURN TO 'PEN' SOUGHT

The record showed Cowan was arrested in New Castle, in 1928, on a charge of breaking and entering and was sentenced to serve from 5 to 16 years in the penitentiary. He escaped by climbing over the brick wall surrounding the prison yard.

Cowan, Warden Stanley Ashe of the penitentiary here, said probably will be taken back to Rockview late this week.

Ashe said the man was a mental defective, and the fact that he probably would spend the rest of his life in some institution undoubtedly would lead New Jersey authorities to acquiese in his return.

ALL CLUES WORTHLESS

HOPEWELL, N. J., March 23.—(AP.)—The morning bulletin from police at the Lindbergh home today was in effect a mere reiteration that the kidnaped Lindbergh baby is still missing and that all clues have proved worthless.

Supt. H. Norman Schwarzkopf again said in the bulletin that information brought by H. Wallace Caldwell, of Chicago, had been found to have no bearing of value to the case.

He minimized the possibility of there being any connection between the kidnaping and the alleged attempt of George Malden to break into the home of J. Seward Johnson.

He said there was no proof one way or the other that a note found on a pigeon's leg in East Stroudsburg, Pa., was a prank. Concerning a note reported to have been found on a pigeon in South Kent, Conn., he said he had only the report and had seen neither the pigeon nor the note.

And that string of negatives was the whole content of the day's official bulletin, which held no single shred of hope that solution of the mystery would soon be reached.

SEE 'RACKET' IN COUNTY HAULING

Eddie Ray Quizzed After Auditors Charge Excessive Truck Hire on Projects

A reputed "truck hire racket" on county projects involving hundreds of thousands of dollars, was under scrutiny today at an investigation begun before County Controller R. G. Woodside, as a result of the county audit.

Eddie Ray, former roadhouse proprietor, summoned under an old act which permits the Controller to investigate all circumstances of county improvements, testified he had cashed checks made out by the county to two men for trucking by indorsing their names.

These men Ray said were his brother, Hamilton Ray, and Charles Rock, unable to write.

He explained signing the name of his brother by saying the latter could not write. Hamilton Ray corroborated this.

Rock testified:

"When I got checks from the county for truck work on road jobs I took the envelope without opening it to Eddie Ray and he paid the drivers."

A. K. Koegley, trucking contractor, of Glendale, said he had put one truck to work on a county job in his own name and another in the name of "Ham" Ray.

Asked to explain he said:

"The whole story was they would not stand for more than one truck in one man's name. I was a county committeeman."

AUDITOR ATTENDS

Others present, in addition to Woodside, included M. C. Conick, of Main & Co., making a county audit; W. T. Rees, chief clerk to the Commissioners; Assistant County Solicitor Ralph H. Frank; Arch Powell, counsel for Woodside, and Attorney H. D. Hirsh, who said he represented Rock.

Disclosures of the findings of the auditors, it was hinted, will reveal irregularities in numerous additional county departments.

One secret conference with the auditors was held yesterday by Commissioners Barr and Mc Govern. It was understood action on the auditors' findings will be deferred until after a conference with Commissioner C. C. McGovern, a patient in the Valley Hospital with a broken ankle.

FIRM NOTE SENT IN CRISIS

Dominions Secretary Meets With King; War Query Raised in Parliament

LONDON, March 23.—(AP.)—Great Britain is determined that Ireland shall neither abolish the oath of allegiance to the British crown nor discontinue payment of the Irish land annuities, J. H. Thomas, secretary for dominions, told the House of Commons today, a short time after he had conferred for an hour in Buckingham Palace with King George.

To that end the government has sent a communication to the Free State government which will make the British standpoint "clear beyond the possibility of a doubt," he said.

DE VALERA NOTICE

Eamon de Valera, new Free State President, informed London officially yesterday that he intends to abolish the oath and, although there has been no official communication regarding the land annuities, his public statements during and since the recent Irish election made it clear he intends to discontinue their payment to England. Addressing Commons, Mr. Thomas asserted:

"Failure to pay will be a manifest violation of an agreement which is binding in law and in honor on the Irish Free State, whatever administration may be in power, in exactly the same way as the treaty itself is binding on both countries."

This is no time for panic, he told the House, "but the matter is serious and the best way to deal with it is not by debate in the Commons."

REFUSES DETAILS

Pressed for details, he said he had no intention of going into them. He declared:

"My answer is clear and explicit. The annuities are a bargain between two peoples, hitherto honorably kept, and we intend that the agreement shall stand."

George Buchanan, a Laborite, of Glasgow, exclaimed:

"Is that a declaration of war by the right honorable gentleman?"

There were loud cries of pro-

WOMAN'S KNIFE PERILS BOROTRA

NEW YORK, March 23.—(AP.)—Mrs. Dorothy Cutler, 33, was in the observation ward of Bellevue Hospital today as result of her interruption of the Franco-American tennis match at the Seventh Regiment Armory last night.

She was seized as she sat in the gallery and held a paper knife aloft over the head of Jean Borotra, French tennis star. Borotra and his partner, Antoine Gentien, who were playing against George Lott and John Van Ryn, were much unnerved by the incident.

Mrs. Cutler is the estranged wife of Merritt Cutler, American tennis player. A number of newspaper clippings about Borotra and pictures of him were found in her handbag.

Mrs. Hermine M. Kruse, an aunt with whom Mrs. Cutler had been living, said financial worries and separation from her husband had been preying upon her niece's mind.

Mrs. Cutler told police she did not intend to harm Borotra, but wanted to give him the knife as a present.

She screamed and struggled when her wrist was seized by another spectator.

Kaiser, Wife Admit Election Violations

John Fay Kaiser and his wife, Mary, of 1703 Fifth avenue, today pleaded guilty in Criminal Court to violating election laws last fall by voting in a district other than that in which they lived.

Judge Elder W. Marshall suspended sentence until the Kaisers appear as witnesses against the man, not identified in court today, who gave them altered tax receipts for registration.

Aged Recluse, Once Famed Portrait Painter, Dead

John Quincy Adams, 77, painter of portraits, whose artistry was much in vogue in Pittsburgh a quarter century ago, was found dead in his little four-room cottage at 51 Brightridge street extension, today.

John Graham, 11, carrying food prepared by his aunt, Mrs. Gilbert Fawcett, of 48 Brightridge street, to the aged man, found the house locked and summoned neighbors, who discovered the body.

Years ago, Adams is said by Deputy Coroner Stanley Guzinsky to have painted portraits of some of the socially prominent families of Pittsburgh. When the deputy entered the little home, which, for 20 years, neighbors said, he had occupied alone, he found numerous paintings of dogs and still life objects.

In addition to being a painter, Adams was said to have been an inventor, one of his inventions being a metal block for sharpening tools. On the back of his overcoat, it is said, he carried a sign made of metal blocks, bearing the legend, "Jack the scissor sharpener man."

The body was identified by a son and taken to a North Side mortuary.

Appeal Court Scorns Plea By Capone

CHICAGO, March 23.—(AP.)—The U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals refused today to listen again to Al Capone's appeal from his conviction for dodging Federal income taxes.

The court disposed of the matter in short order, having received only yesterday the government's formal answer to the Capone arguments for a new hearing. Previously the Trijudge Appelate Court had upheld the conviction before U. S. District Judge James H. Wilkerson, who imposed a sentence of 11 years in prison and a $50,000 fine.

Only an appeal to the United States Supreme Court stood between the gangster and punishment now, and it was considered likely the Appeals Court would issue the mandate sending Capone to a federal penitentiary without awaiting the anticipated appeal to the highest tribunal. Thus far no Chicago gangster has won reversal of an income tax conviction in the court of last resort.

Five months ago tomorrow "Scarface" Alphonse was locked up in the County Jail where he still sits, reading, playing cards, chatting at intervals with cellmates, family, attorneys or the few outsiders who are allowed to see him.

Refused bail by the Appeals Court, refusing to go to prison so long as there was a chance of reversal, he has served five months without gaining credit on the long prison term before him.

German Moratorium On Interest Denied

BERLINN, March 23.—(INS.)—It was officially denied here today that Germany intends to declare a moratorium on interest and amortization payments. The report, which was widely circulated abroad yesterday, depressed German bonds.

Car Stolen to Give Dog Ride, Man Freed

LOS ANGELES, March 23.—(INS.)—His testimony that he had stolen an automobile to give his crippled dog a ride today had won two years' probation for George Dergest, 21, former chauffeur for Charles Levine, first trans-Atlantic airplane passenger.

Foster Daughter Of Gandhi Jailed

AHMEDABAD, India, March 23.—(AP.)—Mahatma Gandhi's 18-year-old adopted daughter, Laxmi, who belongs to the caste of untouchables, was arrested today in Taluka, Jalalpur, on a charge of distributing unlawful propaganda.

SOUTH SPEEDS STORM RELIEF

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 23.—(AP.)—Succor for the suffering and needy was advanced today in devastated communities that surrendered more than 300 lives and untold property damage to tornado fury.

The Red Cross and the American Legion took the lead in administering relief, with aid from doctors, nurses and residents of the stricken regions.

Scores of the seriously injured are in hospitals in Alabama cities. More than 40 were brought to Birmingham. Some were regarded as having good chances of recovery.

The Department of Agriculture at Montgomery has its agents in the field checking the damage to crops and property. It was estimated the loss would run into the millions.

At Northport, where 32 were killed and more than 100 injured, as the town was practically wiped off the map, relief work was well in hand. National Guardsmen were expected to be withdrawn today.

Mass funerals, in some instances for entire families, were held yesterday for many of the victims and the work of burying the dead continued today.

Spitale's Detroit Lindy Clue Fails

NEW YORK, March 23.—(AP.)—"Salvy" Spitale's trip to Detroit on a "hot tip" in connection with the Lindbergh baby kidnaping turned out to be worthless, it was announced today by his underworld associate, Irving Bitz, in an interview with the Brooklyn Eagle. Bitz said:

"The only thing that we are certain of is that no so-called organized gang did the job."

HUNT FOR PLANE VICTIM FAILS

STEUBENVILLE, O., March 23.—(AP.)—High waters of the Ohio River today still hid the body of Dr. Carol S. Cole, St. Louis woman physician, missing passenger of the Transcontinental and Western Airways plane which fell into the river early Monday.

The body of Hal George, pilot who was drowned when caught in the wreckage, was removed to Detroit for burial.

Investigation of the accident continued, and it is planned to send the plane wreckage to Columbus for closer inspection. The motor has not been found and 27 sacks of mail are missing.

Paul Mellon, son of Andrew W. Mellon, Ambassador to England and formerly Secretary of the Treasury, was elected a director of the Pittsburgh Coal Company at the annual meeting of stockholders here today.

Morgan to Make Radio Debut Tonight

NEW YORK, March 23.—(AP.)—Carefully guarded against cranks, J. Pierpont Morgan will break his rule of silence tonight by speaking to the world. The financier, making his radio debut, will ask support for the local block-aid plan to help the jobless in a broadcast at 8 o'clock over WJZ and NBC network. Short waves will carry it overseas.

Station KDKA, Pittsburgh outlet of the WJZ network, announced this afternoon it would be unable to carry Mr. Morgan's address.

Plans 12-Hour Hop, Berlin to New York

NEW YORK, March 23.—(AP.)—Berlin to New York in 12 hours is the aim of Capt. Karl Hamm, former German flier, who sails for his homeland tonight.

He said he would fly the ocean next August in a plane with a new gas and steam turbine engine. The cabin will be airtight, so the craft can travel in rarified atmosphere 30,000 feet up.

Hoover Medal for Rudy If Song Ends Slump

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(INS.)—President Hoover today fell back on Rudy Vallee to pull the country out of its present condition.

The crooner, who is appearing locally, and his wife called at the White House to pay their respects. The President asked Vallee if he was still pleasing people. When Rudy replied he thought he was, Mr. Hoover said:

"If you'll get a song that will pull us out of this depression, I'll give you a medal."

Vallee caused almost complete cessation of work in the executive offices while the girl clerks and stenographers came upstairs into the lobby to see him and to "see what his wife looks like."

COOLIDGE FRIEND REFUSES TO ACT AS HOOVER DELEGATE

G. O. P. CIRCLES STIRRED BY ACTION

Party Leader Strikes Name Of Whiting, Ex-Secretary Of Commerce, From List

BOSTON, March 23.—(AP.)—Political circles in Massachusetts buzzed with speculation today upon the possible significance of the refusal of William F. Whiting, former secretary of commerce, to go to the Republican national convention as a delegate pledged to President Hoover.

Whiting, a close personal friend of Calvin Coolidge, was removed from the official Republican list of delegates yesterday by National Committeeman Louis K. Liggett, who said that anyone who placed himself on the party would not be on the regular slate.

Whiting himself had qualified as a candidate from the First District as an unpledged delegate. He denied his refusal to include the phrase "Pledged to Hoover" on his nomination papers had any significance other than to make clear that he did not wish to go to the convention with his hands tied.

From his home in Holyoke Whiting denied he had any hostility toward President Hoover and said that he regarded the President very highly. In answer to a question as to the possibility of a move to draft Coolidge he said his understanding was that Mr. Coolidge was not available in any way.

Georgia Democrats Vote On Roosevelt, Garner

ATLANTA, March 23.—AP.—Georgia Democrats voted their presidential preference today in an unusual primary between Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York and Judge G. M. Howard of Atlanta, who says he will support Speaker John Garner for the nomination.

Gov. Roosevelt is an adopted son of Georgia, which he visits frequently for his health, and his supporters have predicted he will carry every county in the state.

Judge Howard's backers say he will "carry the state for Garner" and have featured the Texan's Southern birthright in appeals for votes from Georgia, the first Southern state to express its preference.

The campaign of Judge Howard has not had the active indorsement of Garner who declined to enter the primary personally. It is the first contest between the New Yorker and an advocate of the Garner candidacy.

Says Capone Seeks Chicago G. O. P. Rule

CHICAGO, March 23.—(INS.)—Al Capone's organization is trying to get control of the Republican party in Cook County, according to a charge made today by Edward J. Brundage, former state attorney general and now a candidate for Governor.

The immediate aim of the crime syndicate is to control the Republican party committee which nominates candidates for the bench, Brundage said. This would enable gangsters to name the men who might be called upon to try them.

Hoover, Native Son Wins Iowa G. O. P.

DES MOINES, Ia., March 23.—(AP.)—Iowa's delegation of 28 members will go to the Republican national convention instructed to vote for the nomination of the state's native son, President Hoover.

Speaker Garner Lauded As True American in Radio Broadcast

NEW YORK, March 23.—(Universal.)—The human qualities of Speaker Garner, "the busiest man in America," were strikingly pictured to a vast radio audience last night by Frazier Hunt, well-known author and newspaper correspondent.

Speaking over the WJZ-NBC network, Hunt addressed a part of his talk to "Aunt Sarah Garner," the Speaker's 81-year-old mother, who was "listening in" back home in Texas, Hunt said:

"If you don't hear him as often as you like, 'Aunt Sarah,' don't worry, but remember he is about the busiest man in America. He has only a majority of three Democrats in the House of Representatives, so he has to keep all the machinery oiled up."

Hunt spoke of the sturdy Garner pioneers who founded their homes in the wide-open spaces of Texas. He told of the rise of Speaker Garner to the eminent post he now holds, adding:

"Speaker Garner is one of the most popular men in Washington. is shrewd, intelligent, a sharp and witty offhand debater, has a world of common sense to draw from and a knack of handling men."

Paying a fine tribute to Mrs. Elfie Garner, the Speaker's wife, Hunt said:

"She is a fine, kind, motherly woman, and the only person in the world who thinks any more of John Garner than she does may possibly be the little old lady down in Texas who brought him into the world.

"All three are real Americans, simple, straightforward, shrewd, intelligent. All America can be proud of them."

Hoover Given Bill Curbing Injunctions

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(INS.)—The Norris anti-injunction bill, which restricts Federal Courts in the issuance of injunctions in labor disputes, reached the White House today and President Hoover sent it to Attorney General Mitchell for report.

The President is expected to sign the measure, although it is understood he does not wholly approve of it.

ANGLER CONSUL DELAYS TROTH

SAN FRANCISCO, March 23.—AP.—A story of difficulties experienced by Madame Valdi, American opera singer, in finding a bit of American soil in the South Seas upon which to be married was related today in advices received by the Union Steamship Line from Suva.

The messages said Madame Valdi, in private life Mrs. Anne Margaret Lewis Mallor, had met Charles E. Curtis, Tahiti planter, while on a yatching trip, and had consented to marry him, but insisted the marriage be performed under the American flag. Tahiti is French territory.

Madame Valdi and Curtis, the advices said, set out for Pago Pago, but found that port in the grip of an epidemic. They headed for Apia, Samoa. Dangerous seas prevented them from entering the harbor. The couple continued to Suva, Fiji Islands, only to find the American consul there had gone fishing. The messages said the marriage took place when the consul returned home.

Dies of Auto Hurts, Driver Under Bond

Dennis David, 59, of 621 Duff street, died today in West Penn Hospital as the result of injuries sustained, police said, by being struck by an automobile driven by Harry F. Gerstein, of 5462 Fair Oaks street. Gerstein was to be turned over to the Coroner's office under $1,000 bond to await hearing.

DRY LAW TEST IN SENATE SURE

WAS[H]N, March 23.—(AP.)—[anti-prohibitionists] have th[e] [ance] of their dominant d[emands] [that a show]down r[oll] [on the issue will] be taken soon.

Not to be outdone by their House colleagues, the Senate foes of prohibition yesterday put before the Senate a motion to discharge the Judiciary Committee from further consideration of resolutions for repeal or modification of the Eighteenth Amendment.

The dry leaders promptly welcomed an immediate roll call, but Senator Tydings (Dem.), of Maryland, who presented a petition signed by 24 members asking for a roll call, said he would wait until March 30, to press his motion.

The new move is part of the anti-drys' campaign to get Congress on record. They have the House members marked down in black and white.

Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, signed the petition circulated by Senators Tydings and Bingham (Rep.), of Connecticut, for a roll call vote on repeal resolutions, but with the understanding that it was simply to give opportunity for a record vote and did not commit him to an anti-dry position.

No petition is necessary in the Senate to obtain the discharge of a committee, and just why it was circulated was not made known by Tydings. It was signed by 13 Republicans and 11 Democrats.

Pianist Proposes Crooner Censorship

CHICAGO, March 23.—(AP.)—Moissaye Boguslawski, the pianist, would discipline the radio crooners. If he had his way he would censor their efforts just like they do naughty books or moving pictures, he told the Illinois Women's Athletic Club yesterday. He said:

"The success of the crooners with their 'dada' talk shows the public ought to be protected against its own musical taste."

WOMEN BATTLE FOR 'RIGHTS' IN HOUSE

Leaders Condemn Statutes Denying Equality, Demand Complete Emancipation

By BESS FURMAN

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP.)—Organized women—threescore strong—invaded the austere chambers of the House Judiciary Committee today and ranged themselves on opposite sides of the movement to put an equal rights amendment in the Constitution.

All the witnesses were women, excepting Representative Ludlow (Dem.), of Indiana, sponsor of the amendment. Ludlow said:

"The first stronghold taken in the battle was the stronghold of equal suffrage. Now they are moving on to capture the second stronghold, which will make their emancipation complete—the stronghold 'equal rights.'

HITS DOUBLE STANDARD

"It is proposed to sponge out our state statutes the monstrous falsehood that there should be a double standard of morals, with legal escapes for the male delinquent and legal penalties for the woman who is caught in sin."

Mrs. Rebecca Greathouse, assistant United States attorney in the District of Columbia, flailed the Supreme Court, saying it, "in its conservative way, always interprets the rights of women under the common law of 1788, when the Constitution was adopted. We have no rights under the Constitution except suffrage."

Mrs. Jane N. Smith, of New York, testified "we believe all industrial legislation should apply to men and women alike. It is almost impossible to secure equality from state legislatures. I know because I've worked with the New York Legislature."

SCORES 'PERFECT LADIES'

Miss Josephine Casey, field worker with women labor, was bitter against "the perfect ladies who want to protect the working girl—protect her 'out on her ear.'"

Miss Babel Van Dyke and Miss Margaret Lueres indorsed the amendment on behalf of the younger members of the National Women's party. Then Miss Edith Weber, actress, said the absurdity of restricted working hours for women would be evident "if at 10 o'clock at night in the theater it was announced a man would take the heroine's part so she could go home to bed."

Mrs. William J. Carson, Philadelphia, of the National League of Women Voters, led the opposition.

Teachers in Chicago To Get November Pay

CHICAGO, March 23.—(AP.)—There will be a $3,800,000 cash payday for Chicago's school teachers and city employes tomorrow. Mayor Anton Cermak announced last night banks had purchased enough tax anticipation warrants to make the money available.

The 14,000 teachers will be paid for the last half of November. They have received only 10 weeks' cash pay since May.

Apache on Way To Life in Prison

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 23.—(AP.)—Mac Seymour, 21-year-old Apache Indian, was in the county jail here today pending transfer to McNeil Island, where he will spend the remainder of his life in prison for the murder of Miss Henrietta Schmerler, Columbia University anthropology student. Seymour was sentenced yesterday by Federal Judge Albert Sames at Globe.

LEAGUE COURT SHIFT LAID TO STIMSON

Senators Demand Secretary Clarify Stand; Group Split Over Reservations

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP.)—Secretary Stimson stated today in a letter to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that he believes the revised protocal for American adherence to the League Court "fully accepts" the Senate's reservation against advisory jurisdiction by the court.

The secretary's declaration, read to the committee by Chairman Borah, immediately provoked a storm of debate in the executive session and it was decided to ask Mr. Stimson to appear for questioning.

Senator Johnson (Rep.), of California, an opponent of the court, declared after the session that the secretary's statement is at variance with what he has said heretofore."

SENATORS SPLIT

The committee is sharply divided over whether the revised protocol which Elihu Root helped to frame amply safeguards the reservation voted by the Senate in 1926 to prohibit the court from rendering an advisory opinion in matters in which America is concerned, without first obtaining the consent of this government.

The other powers never accepted this reservation and the revised protocol was drafted.

Secretary Stimson, who was unable to appear before the committee today because of a cold, ended his letter to Senator Borah with the following statement:

"By joining we incur absolutely no liabilities, except the insignificant liability to pay our share of the Court's expenses, while on the contrary, we gain a power to exercise our influence not only in the choice of the judges of the court, but in its methods of procedure as well, which we do not now have.

"Never before was the world in greater need of the orderly development of international rules of conduct by the wise method of judicial decision, which we Americans are so well acquainted with in the development of the common law of this country.

URGES ACTION

"We have delayed long in availing ourselves of that opportunity. I sincerely hope that we will now assume the privileges and the responsibility of taking a part in that growth in the future."

Chairman Borah said:

"Many members of the committee were not satisfied with the Secretary's letter. Indeed, it was contended that it led to confusion. It was decided to await the pleasure of the Secretary of State to ask him some questions. We will proceed as soon as the Secretary is able."

No meeting will be held before next Wednesday.

60,000 Registration Goal in Philadelphia

Brisk early enrollment of voters was reported in many sections.

Senator Proposes Speakeasy for Dry Fair

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP.)—A suggestion by Senator Tydings, of Maryland, that a speakeasy be included in a prohibition fair to be held here April 17, has been rejected.

The Maryland Democrat, an anti-prohibitionist, proposed this in a letter to William Rufus Scott, director of the fair.

In a statement today the organization said a speakeasy had not been planned because they "are as old as the liquor traffic itself" and had not been produced by prohibition.

A modern soda fountain will be included, however, "to typify the general shift to soft drinks under prohibition."

MARLENE DIETRICH

DAMAGE SUITS TO BE DROPPED

HOLLYWOOD, March 23.—(INS.)—Mrs. Riza von Sternberg, divorced wife of Joseph von Sternberg, rich film director, will withdraw two damage suits she filed in New York against Marlene Dietrich, screen star, charging libel and alienation of affections, the studio that employs Miss Dietrich and Von Sternberg announced today.

The situation was adjusted, the studio announced, as the result of a letter from the editor of a Budapest newspaper in which he admitted statements credited to Miss Dietrich in a syndicated article were without foundation.

Mrs. von Sternberg on February 3 directed her New York attorney to withdraw the suits, she said in a letter to Miss Dietrich.

Miss Dietrich wrote Mrs. Von Sternberg:

"We have both been imposed upon. No movement was ever launched to boycott me or my pictures by you. No report was circulated by you that I was divorcing my husband, Herr Sieber.

"No statement was made by me that Mr. Von Sternberg was divorcing you because of me, or that he would have divorced you if he had never met me."

Miss Pringle will have the leading role in "Some Baby."

She will not dance in this production, as she once planned to do in vaudeville. She said:

"The play is a good, clean, amusing comedy, and my role is that of just a regular girl."

SALES TAX FOES PERIL BUDGET BALANCING

Bitter Opponents Confront ...rs With New Threat To Beat Levy Program

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—A new peril confronted the $1,096,000,000 tax increase bill in the House today when extreme foes of the manufacturers' sales tax disclosed they will fight the budget balancing program of House leaders.

Instead of substituting special levies for the manufacturers' tax, if it is defeated, they will take the position that the government can borrow funds to meet the treasury deficit.

This was the answer of many of the sales tax foes to the declaration of the bi-partisan leadership in charge of the tax bill that more obnoxious taxes will have to be levied if it is defeated.

BUDGET THREAT

Representative Rankin (Dem.), of Mississippi, one of the anti-sales tax leaders, said:

"I am not particular about balancing the budget at this time. Of course, if we defeat the sales tax there will be some other taxes proposed. They may make up the total, but if we don't the government can borrow on short term securities."

In taking this attitude, the extreme anti-sales tax leaders definitely broke with Speaker Garner and other leaders of the House who declare that a balanced budget is necessary to preserve the nation's credit and make possible business recovery.

Democratic Leader Rainey has asserted that Congress will be kept in session all summer if necessary to carry out the budget balancing program. Among those opposed to this position is Representative Byrns (Dem.), of Tennesseeñ chairman of the appropriations committee. A drive will be made against the tax on admissions of 25 cents and over, Rankin said.

OTHER AMENDMENTS

Other amendments will be proposed which are designated as a part of the campaign against concentrated wealth.

A heavy tax on stock transfers and speculative trading is planned as well as an attack upon the privilege of filing consolidated returns for corporations under the same ownership.

While Rainey predicted that the manufacturers' tax would win tomorrow, Rankin said opponents are increasing in strength and will strike it from the bill. The action of the Ways and Means Committee in eliminating necessaries of life from the sales tax has not satisfied its opponents, he said.

TAX PAYMENTS TOP ESTIMATES

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP.)—Income tax collections thus far this month have exceeded Treasury estimates.

The latest Treasury statement, for last Monday, showed receipts for 21 days of March amounted to $178,567,113. The Treasury had forecast collections for the entire month would approximate $175,000,000.

Receipts for Monday were $11,129,428, which was $2,000,000 less than on the comparative day a year ago. The month's total was approximately $135,000,000 less than for the same period last year.

Collections for the fiscal year amounted to $836,688,455 compared with $1,484,466,317 for the previous year. The deficit was $1,805,204,869.

Prospects now are that total income tax collections for March will amount to $195,000,000, or $140,000,000 less than collected in the same month last year.

Those that cannot go to Germany can at least read Goethe, one of the world's four greatest writers. The other three, Homer, Dante and Shakespeare.

CHINESE TROOPS DIG IN, SHANGHAI WAR THREAT RENEWED

Japanese Prepared to Take Strong Measures in New Crisis; Leaders Anxious

SHANGHAI, March 23.—(AP.)—War clouds again lowered over Shanghai late today as Japanese army officials announced they were preparing to take strong measures to block a reported re-entry into the 12½ mile zone by Chinese troops.

The Japanese said they were informed by observers that the Chinese had crossed Soochow Creek at Chiawangmiao, within the zone of evacuation described in Gen. Kenkichi Uyeda's ultimatum of February 20.

ASKED TO WITHDRAW

Japanese officials asked British consular authorities to request the Chinese to withdraw south of the creek. A spokesman said the Chinese were digging themselves in on the north side of the stream, opposite the Japanese lines, with the apparent intention of remaining.

The pessimistic situation was deepened by the failure of the Nanking government to appoint a military delegate to the peace parleys to replace Gen. Chiang Kuang-Nai, who walked out of the conference this morning, complaining that the Japanese had sent Gen. Uyeda, who was only a lieutenant general and beneath Kunang-Nai's rank.

PARLEYS DELAYED

The prospect tonight was that the parleys would be delayed at least until Thursday.

Japanese authorities expressed concern over the move, declaring they believed the situation might be more deep-seated than appeared.

An opinion was freely expressed among the public that the Chinese military leaders were anxious to escape participating in the parleys, believing they would be subjected to criticism regardless of the outcome.

Borough Chief Denounces State Constables for Raid On Anthracite Meeting

WILKES BARRE, Pa., March 23.—(AP.)—A clash between state police and Larksville Borough authorities, resulting in the alleged clubbing of a borough patrolman and a constable when troopers broke up a meeting of insurgent miners, injected a new note today into the strike in the anthracite field.

George Bialek, chief of the Larksville police, charged that several automobile loads of state police swept into the borough early today and started to break up a meeting of unemployed miners from the Lower E division of the Hudson Coal Company.

Borough police were on duty, Bialek said, and there had been no disorder, and the action of the state police in breaking up the meeting was "unwarranted."

He said the clubbing of his men occurred when they differed with the state police as to the necessity of disrupting the meeting.

Capt. William A. Clark, commanding Troop B, state police, at Wyoming Barracks, termed the account of the affair given by borough authorities as "greatly exaggerated."

BANK EMPLOYES GO ON TRIAL

Other indictments returned yesterday included those of Henry J. Appel and Russell Campbell, of Pittsburgh, charged with passing counterfeit money.

Mele Rudolph, of Pittsburgh, who admitted he sold $5 bills for $2 each, was sentenced yesterday to serve three to five years in a federal penitentiary. Rudolph told Judge F. P. Schoonmaker he had 100 bogus $5 bills. He sold 10 of them, he said, and threw the rest in the Allegheny River.

Weather Conditions.

The barometric pressure is rather irregularly distributed. High pressure centered over the Southern Appalachian Mountain section covers practically all of the southern half of the country from the Atlantic coast to the Pacific, while low pressure centers appear in the Far Northwest, the lake region and over Alberta. As a result of this pressure distribution there is considerable cloudiness and precipitation tonight. It is somewhat colder than yesterday over the eastern states and over the southern plains, while over the central plains and Central and Southern Mississippi Valley states there was a rise in temperature. The weather will continue moderately cool in the extreme northeast tonight, but will begin rising Thursday.

River Conditions.

The rivers are rising slowly. Stage at Pittsburgh is 4.0 feet. Lock No. 1 (Mon.) 11.9. Lock No. 7 (Ohio) 19.2. Pittsburgh 16.5. Dam No. 4, 14.0. Dam No. 6, 15.6. EXPLORER CLUE EXPLODED

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 23.—(INS.)—Testimony introduced before a federal investigating committee proving that the white man seen in the Brazilian jungles last October by Stephen Rattin, a trapper, could not have been Col. P. H. Fawcett, missing British explorer, was made public here today.

Rattin was asked whether the bearded white man he met in a wild section of Matto Grosso state spoke Spanish. Rattin replied that the man did not know this language.

The committee then decided the man could not have been Fawcett, as the British explorer spoke Spanish perfectly. Rattin said:

"I never said I found Fawcett. I never heard the name of Fawcett before my return from the jungles. I only said I saw a white man among the Morcegos tribe who spoke English, a language which I understand poorly."

Glass Hospitals Predicted In Future

CHICAGO, March 23.—(AP.)—If you go to a hospital 25 years hence to have those troublesome tonsils or the appendix removed, here's how Supt. Asa S. Bacon, of the Presbyterian Hospital, says the institution will look:

There'll be no windows, but solid walls of glass reaching from the ground floor to the ceiling, shutting out noises of the city and permitting no dust to enter, because they'll be sealed. They will permit more light and make hospital rooms more cheerful.

Small electric units within each room will provide heat in the winter, relief from the heat in the summer and ventilate the place with the aid of ducts which will take in and filter the outside air. Central heating plants of today will be taboo.

5 IN AMBRIDGE HURT BY BLAST

An 11-year-old girl was suffering from shock today and four other persons were recovering from injuries suffered when an explosion, followed by fire, destroyed two homes and damaged a third in Park road, Ambridge, last night. Damage was estimated at $25,000.

Marie Sekanic, 11, of 151 Merchant street, three blocks from the explosion, suffered convulsions following the blast which shattered the two-story frame dwelling of Nick Kostas, of 220 Park road, and shook Ohio Valley towns in a two-mile radius.

Mrs. Tony Direnzo, of 218 Park road, and William Purvis, 44, of Coraopolis, a visitor in the Direnzo home, were cut by flying glass. Two Ambridge firemen, Warren Sohn and Lester Kane, were injured while fighting the blaze.

The explosion, believed to have been caused by gas, blew portions of the Kostas home a distance of more than 200 feet. Windows were shattered for a radius of three blocks. The force of the blast blew in a wall of the Direnzo home and tore a large hole in wall of the two-story brick dwelling occupied by Thomas Soupe at 222-224 Park road.

Fire which followed the explosion destroyed the Direnzo home and spread to the Soupe dwelling before it was extinguished.

VOLPE FREED, GETS FORFEITS

John Volpe may be a waning political power in Wilmerding, but in Pittsburgh, at least at Oakland Police Station, his standing seems substantial.

Dapper John, it was learned today, has been able to recover the $100 forfeits he posted when he and a girl, who gave her name as Ruth Alyons, 21, were arrested before dawn of February 12, in Schenley Park's "Honeymoon Circle."

The following day Magistrate William McNamara and Inspector James N. Hoey both declared the bonds forfeited when Volpe and the girl failed to appear.

But four days later they did appear—so Hoey and McNamara now say. And after Volpe explained that he didn't realize the two men who questioned him were police, he and the girl were discharged, Hoey said.

The money was returned and Volpe also recovered his revolver, for which he had a permit.

Mike Sasko, striking miner picket, shot in the wrist in the riot, testified he was standing five feet in front of Philipovich's store when the trouble began. He denied any hostile act on the part of the strikers.

He denied previous testimony that he saw four policemen on the truck carrying working miners or admitted that he was a member of the National Miners' Union.

Fortescue to Sail For Hawaii Trial

NEW YORK, March 23.—(INS.)—Mai. Granville R. Fortescue was so far recovered today from an attack of pneumonia that he expected to leave the Medical Center Hospital Friday.

He planned to sail within three or four weeks for Honolulu, where his wife, with a naval lieutenant and two enlisted men, face trial on the charge of murdering a native accused of an attack upon her daughter, Mrs. Thomas H. Massie.

AIR MAIL LAW DEFENDED

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP.)—Postmaster General Brown today defended the right of the department to make airmail extensions and told the House Postoffice Committee it had heard too much from men who would not be satisfied with any law.

Brown testified in response to an invitation from Chairman Mead to consider some change in the present law which would answer charges of favoritism and monopoly.

The Mead bill urged by air operators who wish mail contracts, would take from the Postmaster General his discretionary powers to extend existing routes and would compel cancellation of contracts granted under this discretionary power and require their readvertisement under competitive bidding.

Brown told the committee there still were small gaps in the three transcontinental routes that now serve in the most important cities that should be bridged.

He recommended extensions from Boston to Albany, Western Pennsylvania to Chicago via Fort Wayne, Bismarck, N. D., to Seattle, Louisville or St. Louis to Richmond and Washington, Washington, Philadelphia, Harrisburg and Buffalo.

Carol and Helen Amicable At Bedside of Ill Son

BUCHAREST, March 23.—(INS.)—The illness of Crown Prince Michael, former "boy king" of Rumania, today brought his parents together in a friendly atmosphere for the first time in years.

Princess Helen, divorced wife of King Carol, returned to Bucharest this afternoon from Italy and lost no time in rushing to the bedside of her son in Carol's palace.

The King met her in the sickroom and for some minutes they chatted amicably, in sharp contrast to their last meeting when Carol virtually banished his former wife from Rumania, depriving her of royal privileges because of her staunch refusal to consent to a reconciliation.

Prince Michael is suffering from a severe attack of grip. Unable to bring Helen back to Bucharest by any other means, Carol appealed to her through an emissary to return from Florence to take care of her son. She immediately complied, and made a triumphal entry into the capital in King Carol's private car, which had been sent to the Rumanian frontier to meet her train.

When she arrived at Carol's palace, Prince Michael was asleep. She awoke the lad with kisses and embraces as Carol stood by the bedside.

Marine Faints in Mid-Air, Novice Lands Plane

SAN DIEGO, Cal., March 23.—(AP.)—When the Marine Corps made Himer M. Torner an emergency corporal, it did not realize he would take his rating literally.

Torner, a novice in the air, went aloft as a passenger in a training plane yesterday with Staff Sargt. Orla S. Hofer.

Over Camp Kearney at an elevation of 5,000 feet, Sergt. Hofer became ill, fainted and fell against the controls.

Torner saw the plane begin a quick but crazy descent toward the camp buildings. Realizing an emergency existed, he crawled out of his cockpit, pulled the unconscious sergeant away from the controls—and the Marines, or rather Marine, had the situation once more in hand.

Although his maneuvering would not have qualified him for a pilot's license, Torner brought the plane out of its spin with the ground but 500 feet away, shot it up to 3,000 feet, and then, feeling he had mastered the plane, brought it to an awkward landing on the wrong runway at the Army flying field.

When Army officers reached the plane to inquire for the reason for the unscheduled maneuvers over their buildings, they found Torner applying first-aid treatment to Hofer, who was quickly revived.

SAN PEDRO, Cal., March 23.—(AP.)—Two Navy pilots courageously remained at the controls of their planes after a collision 2,500 feet above the anchored squadrons of the United States fleet in the harbor here yesterday and landed safely in the sea.

Both pilots, Ensigns Elliott W. Parish and Clayton C. Marey, as well as their passengers, Lieut. J. F. Oberrender and Chief Gunner's Mate B. L. Summers, escaped without getting their feet wet.

SUPREME COURT HEARS APPEAL ON TOWN HALL

Justices Point to Stadium, Forbes Field, as Argument About 'Nuisance' Is Made

State Supreme Court justices contested freely during arguments before the full bench today in the Town Hall litigation.

Attorney O. K. Eaton, represented home owners of the Oakland district and others who are appealing from the decision of Judge James R. Macfarlane who upheld the right of the county to purchase the $2,500,000 Nicola site. He argued that the proposed hall would be a nuisance was in violation of the zoning ordinance and the outpouring of people would be dangerous and a menace to traffic.

FRAER COMMENTS

Justice Robert S. Fraer interjected:

"It might be a nuisance in one place and not inanother. I wouldn't want one of those things near my home."

Justice John W. Kephart added:

"Neither would I. We could get into trouble though by ruling it a nuisance. We might be asked to so hold with regard to churches and theaters."

Addressing Eaton, Justice Alexander Simpson said:

"If your logic is correct the proper place to build a town hall would be in a rural district. The baseball field in that vicinity releases a much larger crowd. My experience has been that the crowds don't rush out as one mass but linger to tell how the Waner boys hit a home run in the fourteenth inning."

Justice W. I. Schaffer:

"The football field also draws and disperses larger crowds at one time without great difficulty."

NUISANCE DENIED

For the Schenley Land Farms Company owners of the Nicola site Attorney W. W. Smith argued that all negotiations for purchase of the site were regular, that the district was not residential, as it had many public and semi-public buildings and that the proposed $6,000,000 Town Hall would not be a nuisance.

No argument was offered in behalf of the present board of county commissioners, the Town Hall project having been authorized by their predecessors.

The appeal was argued before the Supreme Court in January at Philadelphia on a special order, and the court later ordered a re-argument before a full bench here including an equal division of the six sitting justices. Since then a vacancy has been filled by the promotion of Justice W. B. Linn from the Superior Court.

The Supreme Court is expected to continue its session here today.

ROME, March 23.—(AP)—Fascist Italy celebrated today with imposing ceremonies the thirteenth anniversary of the foundation of the Fascist party.

Escalator Declared Elevator in Court

An escalator is held to be an elevator, in a lengthy opinion rendered in County Court by Judge M. A. Musmano, in deciding that Hamilton L. Smith, who held a $200 accident insurance policy, is entitled to $600 under a triple indemnity clause.

Smith was injured February 26, 1931, on a department store escalator. His insurance policy with the Connecticut General Life Insurance Company, specified he would be paid triple the face of the policy if injured on a public conveyance or elevator. The insurance company refused to pay the triple sum, maintaining an escalator was not an elevator.

U. S. TAX RULE HERE AFFECTS NATION

Supreme Court Backs Judge Gibson in Declaring Void Law Over Gifts Near Death

A ruling by Judge R. M. Gibson, of the Federal District Court, declaring unconstitutional the provision of the revenue act of 1926 which arbitrarily made taxable as a gift in contemplation of death, any transfer of property, without consideration, within two years of death, has attained far-reaching importance of affirmation by the United States Supreme Court in a decision just handed down, a copy of which was received here today.

Judge Gibson ruled in the suit of D. B. Heiner, collector of internal revenue in the Pittsburgh district, to collect tax from the estate of John W. Donnan of Washington, Pa., on $1,700,000 in securities transferred by Donnan to his four children in March, 1927. Donnan, a former president of the Citizens National Bank of Washington, died in December, 1928.

IMPORTANT DECISION

The Donnan estate was represented by Attorney William G. Heiner, of Pittsburgh, and the government by Assistant Attorney General G. A. Youngquist. The District Court's decision was made in June, 1931. The decision of the Supreme Court is described as so far-reaching in its importance that a number of states having two-year conclusive presumption statutes will now be compelled to amend their laws.

It was said that many millions of dollars would have been collected under this provision had it not been declared invalid, and that the Ways and Means Committee of Congress, in anticipation of the Supreme Court decision, which carried six to two, has included in the proposed new revenue act of 1932 a federal gift tax.

The government contended that the Donnan securities, having been transferred within two years of death, were absolutely taxable under the second sentence of Section 302 (c) of the 1926 revenue act, which provided that all transfers in excess of $5,000 made within two years of death shall be conclusively presumed to have been made in contemplation of death, regardless of whether or not they were made in contemplation of death.

COURT BATTLE HERE

Attorney Heiner contended that the conclusive presumption deprived the executors of the estate of their day in court; that it was arbitrary and capricious, that it constituted classification of mentality, and therefore violated the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution.

On behalf of the government, Attorney Youngquist claimed that the conclusive presumption was necessary in order to prevent evasion of estate taxes and that the two-year period was reasonable and justifiable on account of the virtual ineffectiveness of the rebuttal presumption under prior revenue acts.

Judge Gibson found as a fact that Donnan did not transfer these securities in contemplation of death and also held that particular provision of the revenue act to be unconstitutional. In deciding the case the lower court granted judgment in favor of the executors of the estate.

The modest price may have something to do with it, of course . . . but primarily people buy Richman Brothers Clothes because of their superior quality, style, fit and selection.

It's only common sense that by making all our own clothes, we can give you more for your money than the store that has to buy its clothes. There is one and only one way to save money on clothes without sacrificing quality; and that is by buying them direct from the people who make them. Need we add that this means Richman Brothers, the world's largest makers!

FAGAN SCORES IMPORTATION OF COAL

Union Chief Flouts Company Explanation, Declaring Domestic Product Best

Importation of Scotch and Welsh anthracite coal by the New England Coal and Coke Company, a subsidiary of the Koppers Company, today was branded "regrettable" by P. T. Fagan, president of District No. 5, United Mine Workers of America.

Charges originating in Congress that the Mellon-controlled coal company was importing coal that might have been mined in Russia have been denied by the Koppers Company through its attorney, Tom Michie, who explained that the New England Coal and Coke Company was importing small quantities of the Scotch and Welsh coal to meet a special demand in Boston.

FLOUTS DENIAL

Fagan today flouted this explanation, declaring:

"It is regrettable that big business should import any coal, either bituminous or anthracite, into a country that has the greatest deposits of both. By analysis, our coal is the finest produced anywhere in the world.

"In line with production cost, there is only one nation in the world that can compete with the United States, and that is Russia, with prison labor."

DIRECTOR EXPLAINS

William F. McKay, director of the New England Coal and Coke Company, from his Boston office yesterday said the special demand for the foreign coal was based on its small percentage of ash and high heat.

According to McKay, ash in the foreign coal runs 4 to 6 per cent, and 10 to 12 per cent in domestic coal. He said the price of the imported coal averages about $1 a ton more than the native coal.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Don't Neglect Speech Defects in Children

Dr. Copeland

Recently I talked with a beautiful child about 8 years of age. She was healthy and fairly well developed physically, but had one serious defect—she stuttered.

Although her parents were aware of the condition, little had been done to correct it.

There are more than one million school children in this country between the ages of 5 and 18 who have marked defects of speech. 5% per cent of the public school children in New York City suffer from some form of speech defect.

Stuttering, which is the most common form of speech defect, is believed to be due to [illegible] stress and not as formerly to [illegible] defective organs of speech. Other forms of speech defect are caused by some definite physical defect such as [illegible] palate, hare lip, congenital imperfect teeth, malformations of the tonsils and adenoids, [illegible] growth or broken nose.

To correct a speech defect the cause of these disorders it is necessary to remove the disturbing cause. Children with defective speech are often cured with enlarged tonsils and adenoids are removed, or when nasal deformities are corrected. If a child has a noticeable speech defect he should be thoroughly examined by a physician to determine the possible cause.

When there is difficulty in speech and no underlying cause can be found, the child should receive special instruction and this should be given as early as possible. Children of school age should attend classes where corrective speech work is given.

The work in these classes consists of special programs, production of plays, assembly programs, group discussions and verse reading. Dramatic work, debating and other public-speaking activities form a valuable part in overcoming speech defects and these activities should be encouraged.

Correction of speech should be sought at home as well as at school. When a child makes mistakes in speech, of stammers, correct him, but do so in a kindly way. Never scold him for any speech defect or for slowness in speech.

Children who stammer and stutter are easily confused and become self-conscious. They avoid company for fear of ridicule and embarrassment. When this condition is overlooked, school work is retarded and the child is unhappy. Every attempt must be made to help these children adjust themselves, so that they will not be handicapped in later life.

REGISTRATIONS HERE LIGHT

A light enrollment marked the first session of today's registration of voters in the city, the last before the April 26 primary election.

The registration places were open from 7 to 10 a. m. and Registration Commission officials said averaged less than 50 enrollments each.

They were to be open again from 4 p. m. to 10.

Most of the registrants were persons whose names were stricken from the lists last fall or who have moved recently.

TELL IT TO SALLY -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By SALLY MARTIN

Don't Let a Person Make A Convenience of You

Would you tie up with a business partner you couldn't depend on—one who fussed and backed around; who was for you one day, and for someone else the next?

"Certainly not! Don't be dippy!" you snort.

Yet, if you're a man, the chances are you'll fall for some female racketeer with a make-up like that, and kid yourself that her shenanigans just show she's "sweet and feminine."

That's what A. L. C. has done, and for years the lady has led him a merry chase. But he just can't give her up, because he "loves her so."

And what'll he do about it?

FRIEND OF DIVORCEE

"Dear Sally—

"Will you please help me? I would like to know what you would do, or what you think I should do, under these circumstances.

"I have known a lady for many years, and have always had a tender spot in my heart for her, but as she was married, I made no attempt to get in touch with her.

"Several years ago I found that she had been divorced, and by a peculiar stroke of fate I was thrown into her company. We went out together and I asked her if she was keeping company with any one.

"She said she was. Then I decided to forget her and didn't attempt to see her again, but after several months she phoned me and again we went together, and for several years have been great pals.

"But finally the other man came on the scene, and we had a quarrel, and again I broke with her.

"And again came the phone calls. This has happened three or four times, but each time she comes back.

WANTS TO BREAK

"I have been very kind to her. She says I have been kinder to her than he has. But now she has come and told me that she loves the other man.

"I want to break with her, no matter how hard it hurts—and it is going to hurt terribly to do so—but when I tell her I don't intend to call her up or see her again, she hesitates and will not give me a decided answer. She now says that she thinks as much of me as she does of the other man.

"I don't know what to think, but the unfortunate part of it is that I love this lady with all my heart and most sincerely, all of which she admits.

"Understand we are not kids. We are matured people, and the thing is hitting me harder than anything has ever hit me before. What would you advise me to do? Shall I break with her, or bide my time and wait? Your advice will be greatly appreciated, as you seem to be a woman who understands women. "A. L. C."

You say I understand women. Well, be that as it may, I certainly understand this one. Frankly, she is just making a convenience of you, big boy—using you as a second string to her bow—as someone to fall back on when the real big shot ducks out.

"But I love her!!!" you wail.

What you think you love is probably a pair of melting eyes, or trick ankles, or a slick "line" that she hands you when she feels like it. And, frankly, it hasn't occurred to you to wonder how much loyalty or honesty or good sportsmanship may (or may not) go with 'em!

You'd better get next to yourself and fade out of the picture, before you pick yourself some real trouble by "winning."

It's Better to Begin a Worthy Name Than to Wear One Unworthily—Fay King

SOME OF THE GREATEST NAMES IN HISTORY HAD OBSCURE BEGINNINGS
I'M A DIRECT DESCENDANT OF — ALAS! IS THAT WHAT I'VE COME TO!
AVOID ALL DISCUSSION OF FAMILY — WE HAVEN'T A SINGLE ANCESTOR WORTH MENTIONING
FAY KING

By FAY KING

Some take entirely too much pride in descent. Others take not enough pride in ascent.

Vain persons trace themselves back to an important ancestor, with whom they are a feeble comparison.

Other persons are silent about their obscure forefathers.

There is more reason for pride in those qualities and powers which enable one to improve and rise in the world.

Great names of history have sprung from plain and unknown families and were proud of their humble origin.

I sometimes think that the descendant who boasts so pridefully of his great ancestor might find himself as unwelcome in that ancestor's estimation as he himself regards his lesser forebears.

It is better to begin a worthy name than to only wear one, unworthily!

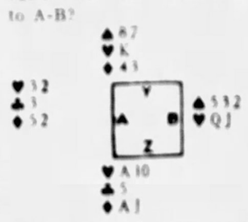
Contract Bridge -:- OFFICIAL SYSTEM As Adopted by Leading Authorities

By E. V. SHEPARD

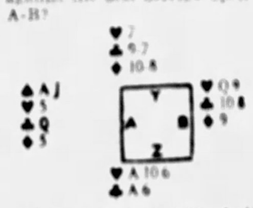
End Play Problems

The solutions are given below for Problems 1 and 2, appearing last week. Problem 1. Z is the declarer. Hearts are trumps. Y is to lead. Y-Z require four tricks for game and rubber. Can they make game against the best defense open to A-B?



Hearts must be exhausted to prevent a cross-ruff for A and B. Y must lead the K of hearts, overtake with his Ace, and return the 10 of hearts, giving A-B their one trick. The fact that Y-Z must win the three remaining tricks, or four tricks total, is obvious.

Problem 2. Z is the declarer. Hearts are trumps. Y is to lead. How many tricks can Y-Z make against the best defense open to A-B?

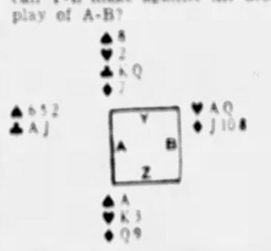


Y must lead the 10 of diamonds, winning the first trick, and allowing Z to discard his only loser, the 6 of clubs. Next Y's 7 of hearts must be led, enabling Z to pick up both of B's trumps, thus enabling Y-Z to win all five tricks.

Old players will find these first few end play problems so easy that they may wonder why they appear here. The object is to give beginners first lessons in the elements of plays that constantly are encountered. More difficult problems will appear later.

PROBLEM 3

The declaration is no-trump. Y is to lead. How many tricks can Y-Z make against the best play of A-B?



The solution of the above problem will appear next week.

College and Boarding School

One mother who sends her boy and girl away to college makes a list of the things that are packed in the trunk and secures it to the lid of the trunk on the inside with thumb tacks. She claims it is the only way she can get back a percentage of the things that starts away with them.

Household Hints

In the store cabinet use glass jars, as this saves time in labeling, for one can see the contents of each at a glance.

Celluloid knitting needles sometimes become bent with the weight of the garment being knitted. When this happens pour hot water over them and straighten with the fingers. Never hold celluloid near an open flame.

-:- Correct Manners -:-

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Wedding Attendants

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you kindly tell me the largest number of couples that it is correct to have to attend on a bride and groom? It is to be a fairly large wedding.

V.

There is no number that really is the limit of attendants, though one rarely sees more than 10 bridesmaids. Usually there are four or six or eight bridesmaids. There should be an even number for the bridesmaids should walk together, two by two, in both the processional and the recessional.

Also it is not at all necessary to have the same number of bridesmaids as ushers. In the well-planned wedding nowadays, the ushers walk together, two by two, in the processional and the recessional, and the bridesmaids walk together.

Name Cards

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I wonder if you will be kind enough to give me some information concerning name cards? I am in doubt as to whether or not Miss shall precede the name. I have an older sister, unmarried, and for this reason I am of the opinion that I should not use the Miss. Will you please tell me what is correct?

D. B.

No matter of what age you are and no matter how many sisters you have, you should use the Miss on your visiting cards. A visiting card is a strictly formal affair and every detail should be done with the greatest formality. A name without a title is not formal on a visiting card.

LEAGUE TO PAY BUS EXTENSION KOCH TRIBUTE PERMIT URGED

Importance of the discovery of the tuberculosis germ will be emphasized tomorrow by the Tuberculosis League of Pittsburgh in observing the fiftieth anniversary of the discovery of the germ by Dr. Robert Koch, German physician.

Byron McCandless, educational director of the league, will broadcast over KDKA at 1:30. A second radio program, stressing the importance of the discovers and advancements made in fighting the disease, will be given by Dr. Howard W. Haggard of Yale University, over WJAS at 5:15.

The occasion will be on the eve of the fifth annual early diagnosis campaign of the league, conducted in an effort to find some of the unknown cases from which others have developed.

Frank H. Cochran, a director of Greentree Borough School Board, yesterday urged the Public Service Commission to grant the Oriole Motor Coach Lines permission to extend a route to Idlewood and Crafton. Cochran said 47 Greentree students attend Crafton High School. The fare would be 20 cents for five tickets for 75 cents.

Representatives of the Pennsylvania Railroad, Pittsburgh Railways Company and the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company opposed the application in a hearing before Examiner W. F. Best, declaring the Oriole line would parallel other lines of transportation.

The Oriole Company also asks permission to extend its line to Thornburg and to Cochran road and Atlanta drive and Cochran road and Miami avenue in Mt. Lebanon. The applications are being opposed by the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company and the Pittsburgh Railways Company.

BANKER SCORES GLASS BILL

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP)—The Glass banking reform bill was called "dangerous" to national bankers today by Allan M. Pope, president of the Investment Bankers Association of America, at hearings before the Senate Banking Committee.

Pope said he had consulted with several hundred investment bankers and "without exception they are opposed to the legislation on the ground that we now are engaged in an attempt to stem the tide of deflation."

He said sections of the measure were "discriminatory" against national banks and predicted this would force the banks to become state rather than national institutions.

Senator Glass (Dem.) of Virginia, observed that "we were confronted by the same threat when the Federal Reserve Board was enacted."

Auto Crash Injures Woman; Driver Held

Mrs. Rachel Martin, of 1713 Larkins way, was injured early today when an automobile driven by her companion, William Griffin, 212 Lindley street, Evergreen, crashed into a parked automobile in the 1400 block, Fifth avenue, according to a police report.

Mrs. Martin, suffering from a fractured elbow, was removed to the Mercy Hospital. Griffin was lodged in Center avenue station, charged with reckless driving, police reported.

LONGER SCHOOL PERIOD SEEN

HARRISBURG, March 23.—(AP)—The schooling period will be extended to 18 years within a decade, in the opinion of Dr. James N. Rule, state superintendent of public instruction, as a result of the economic situation.

Addressing a meeting of the faculty members of the 14 state teachers colleges, Dr. Rule also forecast a marked increase in leisure time and the substitution of mutual dependence of all for the individual independence which he said was characteristic of pioneer days.

Democracy, he said, has not failed, but never has had a fair trial. He added:

"The newspapers and the radio have now unlocked the human mind. The masses are thinking and choosing for themselves."

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 23.—(AP)—Describing himself as the "Whip party" candidate for President, George Edward Stewart, of Oregon, is campaigning in the East. He has a home, a mortgage, a fine automobile, no gas, a radio with old tubes and a suit of clothes—and is thankful for that, he said.

MRS. SIVITER, WRITER, CIVIC LEADER, DIES

Child Welfare Worker and Red Cross Aide, Wife of Finance Expert, Succumbs

Mrs. William Henry Siviter, widely known in literary circles, and prominent in club and civic life of Allegheny County, died last night at her home, 122 North Dithridge street. She was the wife of William H. Siviter, member of the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange, and at one time financial editor of the old Chronicle Telegraph.

She was born in Fairmont, W. Va., the daughter of Francis Pierpont, loyal governor of Virginia at the outbreak of the Civil War, and was educated at Washington Seminary, Washington, Pa., and the Pittsburgh Female College Association.

CIVIC WORKER

She was one of the founders of the Children's Hospital, the Kindergarten Association and the Needlework Guild, and a member of the Twentieth Century Club, Daughters of the American Revolution, Daughters of 1812 and Shadyside Presbyterian Church. During the World War she was chairman of 32 Red Cross committees.

In a book published by the Mitre Press of London, Mrs. Siviter was included among the principal poets of the world. Some years ago Congress printed one of her poems at the time her father's statue was accepted for the Capitol Building in Washington, and on the occasion of the fiftieth anniversary celebration by the State of West Virginia that state printed and distributed 1,000 copies of a poem which she wrote for the celebration.

CONDUCTED COLUMN

For many years she had been a frequent contributor in the literary field and at one time conducted a column of current events for the Chronicle Telegraph.

Besides her husband she leaves a daughter, Mrs. James Chambers Pryor, wife of Capt. Pryor of the United States Navy Medical Corps, stationed in Boston, and a granddaughter, Miss Frances Pierpont Pryor.

Funeral services will be held in Shadyside Presbyterian Church tomorrow.

Mr. Kennedy

John B. Kennedy, Irish humorist and associate editor of Collier's, will relate interesting experiences with noted personalities when he speaks at the Nixon Theater tomorrow under the auspices of the Pittsburgh Morning Lectures. The subject of his address will be "Personalities."

Fan Fare

Here's one for Ripley. Revna Reyes, NBC contralto seen here recently in Ziegfeld's Hot-Cha, is the daughter of a Mexican diplomat and an American mother but her mother is a Mexican subject while her father is an American citizen. Reason: Senora Reyes married Revna's father before he became a naturalized American citizen. Revna (in the way) was reared in Kentucky.

Miss Reyes

Anne Sutherland manages her own tea room in Greenwich Village. B. A. Rolfe once was a vaudeville partner of Jesse Lasky, the movie producer. This must be a record—Red McKenzie singer with Paul Whiteman, claims that only nine people in the world know his first real name. Ted Jewett is planning an April Fool broadcast called "Inside out." Pittsburghers probably will have an opportunity to see Wayne King's new wife, Dorothy Janis of movie fame, when the "waltz king" comes here for the Anatole Easter Ball on April 8. Incidentally, word from New York is to the effect that all arrangements have been made for this program to go sailing away from the Hotel Schenley ballroom throughout the country on Walter Winchell's "magic carpet." All that remains is final confirmation by the sponsors.

Question Box

What is the signature number of the Sun-Telegraph Nite Club on WCAE? What orchestra plays on that program? Lillian W. Braddock.

The selection that heralds the Nite Club program every night is Rudolph Friml's "Chansonette," sometimes called "In Love," played by the studio orchestra under the direction of Dave Levin.

Make $1 equal $3 in buying protection against colds

PEPSODENT ANTISEPTIC is 3 times as powerful as other leading mouth washes. Hence, it goes 3 times as far. That's economy for you! Why waste money on antiseptics that must be used full strength to be effective?

WHICH of the two kinds of antiseptics do you use when fighting sore throat colds—infection—unpleasant breath? For that's all there really are—just two leading kinds. On one side you have the mouth wash that kills germs only when used full strength. On the other side you have Pepsodent Antiseptic—utterly safe when used full strength, yet powerful enough when diluted with 2 parts of water to kill germs in 10 seconds. Pepsodent Antiseptic is at least three times as powerful as other leading antiseptics. Hence, it goes three times as far—gives you three times as much for your money—and gives you greater protection against sore throat colds. What a fine way to save money. Instead of paying $3 for three bottles, you pay $1 and make the three bottles yourself. For years 3 people in 4 diluted the old-style mouth washes. But they were fooling themselves and not killing germs.

So when choosing your antiseptic, be sure you choose the one that kills the germs even when mixed with water. Insist on Pepsodent Antiseptic—and be safe! Be safe—and save money!

BAD BREATH (Halitosis)

The amazing results of Pepsodent Antiseptic in fighting sore throat colds, prove its effectiveness in checking Bad Breath (Halitosis). Remember, Pepsodent Antiseptic is 3 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics. Remember, it kills germs even when diluted with water!

HOLLYWOOD NEWS -:- About That Russian, Mr. Eisenstein -:- THEATERS

Propaganda; Drama in Picture

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, March 23.

Russia's leading director, Serge M. Eisenstein, will go back to Europe to do the final cutting of the 176,000 feet of film he took in Mexico.

This information comes to me from Upton Sinclair, Socialist author and one of the backers of the picture. A... ... secret ... Hollywood ... much ... Eisenstein ... who is motoring from Laredo, Tex., to New York.

Mr. Sinclair would tell me ... when the director is headed for Russia, but Morris Helprin, writing in Experimental Cinema, reports that Eisenstein may return to the Soviet Union this month to direct a picture celebrating the fifteenth anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution.

One who has seen a 10-reel version of the Eisenstein film, and who may be considered ... biased, assures me that ... and is the most perfect picture ever made.

The Russian director he says has shot the story of three workingmen, the first occurring in the Mayan culture of the Tierra Caliente, the second in the Diaz-Madero Regime, this emphasizes hacienda life and the brutality of the period, and the third during the present Agrarian revolt.

Like The Battleship Potemkin, Ten Days That Shook the World and all of Eisenstein's other films, the Mexican picture is propaganda with drama. My unbiased informant questions its box office appeal here but believes profits can be made in Europe. The picture, of course, is silent.

That series of short subjects sponsored by the Motion Picture Relief Fund will not feature the private lives of the stars after all. STORY FOR RAMON

Studio heads at M. G. M are seeking a story for Ramon Novarro. It may turn out to be "Man on the Nile," an original by Edgar Selwyn. As I hear it, the author-director borrowed his idea from "The Arab," another story he wrote for Novarro in the old silent days. Rex Ingram directed "The Arab," which, of course, M. G. M. fell heir to, along with the other old Metro properties.

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

AMONG THE stories that failed to make the newspapers recently was one that concerned the son of a Congressman who is attending a college not so many miles from this town. The youth is quite a speaker, and has been a member of the college debating team for the past year or two. I don't know what good that will ever do him, but there he is.

A recent intercollegiate debate had to do with prohibition. Since the boy's father is an ardent dry and is nationally known for his determined stand in supporting every anti liquor bill, it was only natural that his son should have been chosen to take the affirmative side of the prohibition debate. He was going to plead for prohibition enforcement. Or enfarcement, as the saying goes.

Inasmuch as it is estimated that our American college students are 10 to 1 in favor of repealing the Eighteenth Amendment, I don't imagine that this particular youth had much sympathy in this direction. The student who told me the story asserted that there were several discussions throughout the college about the situation.

"I think young S—— is making a mistake," argued one. "I think he should have a little more backbone. Just because his old man makes a fool of himself in Congress doesn't mean that his son should go through the same routine in college. It's different with his father. In Congress, the old man has plenty of company when he makes a jackass of himself. Down here, the son is practically alone.

"I honestly believe that the boy would have more friends and be much happier if he stood on his own feet. Does he have to accept his father's viewpoint on these matters?"

Another student was a little more charitable.

"Don't be so hard on him," he returned. "I know that, as a good fellow and a regular guy, he's not so hot. But how do you know what his real thoughts are? Maybe he's just as much a fanatic along prohibition lines as his father. Why not give him the benefit of the doubt?"

"I don't think he deserves it," muttered the first.

And so the arguments went along until the night of the debate was reached. Shortly before the start, his colleagues noticed that the Congressman's son was acting rather queerly. He was sitting by himself and mumbling under his breath.

They left him, however, severely alone. Attempting to convince a jury that the affirmative side of prohibition is the correct one is a mighty tough job. And since hopes for the intercollegiate debating title rested on this boy's shoulders, the other students did not wish to interfere.

It finally came the young man's turn to speak. He arose from his seat and stepped across the platform.

"I wish to say," began the Congressman's son, "that prohibition is correct beaush—"

He swayed slightly and fell to the floor. They carried him out and the doctors later said that he had suffered a mild heart attack as a result of too much worry over the debate.

As a matter of fact, the young man had been stewed to the eyeballs! . . .

"DEAR Mr. Helling," writes Franklin Lauber. "I would like very much to find out if you are the same Mark Hellinger with whom I went to high school many, many years ago. There was a chap by the same name who was in my drawing class at Townsend Harris hall.

"Mr. Joseph Cummings Chase was the instructor. At the end of the term we were supposed to hand in four completed drawings which would serve as an examination test. You didn't have the drawings, so, when he left the room, you swiped four of the best drawings of another term from Mr. Chase's desk and handed them in with your own name on them.

"Mr. Chase discovered the deception and you were thrown out of the class. I would like to know if you are the same fellow."

I don't remember the incident, sir. But I will say that it certainly sounds like me . . .

NEVER THINK that waiters have no sense of humor. In one of the larger clubs the other night, a waiter asked me if I was coming in when the cafe had its big spring reopening in two weeks.

"You must come in," he told me. "The entire place is going to be redecorated and we expect plenty of big business. Wait until you see the improvement in the club."

"I'll try to get over," I replied. "But exactly what will the improvements consist of?"

"Oh, they be tremendous," was the amazing response. "The boss is putting two new bulbs in the electric sign!"....

* * *

SPEAKING OF waiters and cafes, it's strange the way guys change around this town. There's a certain speakeasy entertainer who has always been strictly on the make for the other fellow's girl. This chap has no bounds. He'll flirt with anybody's girl—regardless of the time, the place or the situation. As a result, he has made himself cordially disliked by a number of the regulars along the street.

Some two weeks ago, for some peculiar reason, the man fell in love. The girl evidently liked him, too. She came to his speakeasy every night and sat alone at a table while he worked. As soon as he was through he would join her.

The other night he suddenly stopped dancing and rushed to a table. Perking on a husky brute, he took a punch at him. The husky one slugged back. The rest of the mob joined in.

Just about 20 minutes later that cafe looked like one of those places you read about. Chairs and tables were overturned and broken glass littered the floor. The customers were gone. And on the floor before the bar, the flirtatious entertainer was lying in a pool of blood. Both eyes were closed and his face was a mass of bruises.

The owner of the place was standing over him and shaking him vigorously.

"For heaven's sake," cried the proprietor. "What happened?"

The entertainer opened his cut lips.

"Didn't you see what that dirty rat was doing?" he mumbled. "He was trying to flirt with my girl!" . . .

Notes About Coming Films

Maurice Chevalier who arrives Friday in the Penn in his latest film, "One Hour With You," enacts the role of a doctor, a specialist who gives all his feminine patients heart trouble. He prescribes love and laughter. Chevalier is again supported by Jeanette MacDonald who played opposite him in his other successful pictures.

Benny Rubin, Jack Haley, the comedians, and Lorraine Manners head the stage show in the Stanley beginning Friday. On screen will be Richard Barthelmess, Marian Marsh and Norman Foster in "Alias the Doctor."

UNDERWORLD EXPOSE

A sensational "expose" of the inside of politics and its relation to the underworld of a big city and an intimate glimpse into the lives of the police are given in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's drama, "The Beast of the City," booked to open tomorrow in the Fulton. Walter Huston and Jean Harlow head the cast.

"The Final Edition," co-featuring Pat O'Brien and Mae Clarke, opens a three-day engagement in the Enright today. It is the same film that is current in the Davis.

MORE MELODRAMA

"The Monster Walks," a thrill melodrama, comes to the Sheridan Square today. Vera Reynolds and Fox Lease are prominent in the cast.

The film version of Edgar Allan Poe's "Murders in the Rue Morgue" comes to the Davis Friday with Bela Lugosi, who played the title role of "Dracula," and Sidney Fox in the leading roles.

Charlie Murray and George Sidney appear together once again in "The Cohens and Kellys In Hollywood," coming Friday to the Warner.

OTHER BOOKINGS

The Harris beginning Saturday will have two features, again Hoot Gibson will be seen in "Local Bad Man," and Henry Walthall, Leon Janney, Aileen Pringle and King Baggott in "Police Court."

Mildred Couerie, burlesque's "personality girl," the Metropolitan Quartet, Edith Masten and Ann Norton will have principal parts in "Paris Nite Life," which will be next week's attraction in the Academy.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS -:- By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

The roster of George White's "Scandals," which will play six nite and four matinee performances in the Alvin next week, boasts not only twins but quadruplets, all feminine, six sisters from two families. The quads are Gale girls seen here previously in Fitzig Ruth, California's answer to Jepper, they made their professional debut three years ago. The twins, Thomas Sisters, from Kansas City, are harmonizers who made their bow to the public in their own home town when a vaudeville manager booked them to substitute for a canceled act. They've been in pictures, too.

* * *

Beatrice Lillie, who is appearing in Shaw's "Too True to Be Good" in the Nixon, went back to her native city, Toronto, two or three years ago. A committee of local boosters, bursting with pride, asked her to pose for a photograph before the house in which she was born, would she? She would. When the automobile arrived at a particularly impressive mansion she had the chauffeur stop the car. The Lillie was posed against a pillar and the camera men did his job. Miss Lillie has often wondered whose house it was. She had never seen it before.

* * *

It looks as though all of the legitimate theatrical business of Pittsburgh in the next few weeks will be transacted through Alvin box office window. Besides "Scandals," the immediate bookings are Katharine Cornell in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," Eugene Walter's "Grand Hotel" and Ivo Leslie's "Rhapsody in Black," in the order named. Miss Cornell is to come for the week of April 4.

* * *

After a week of Pennsylvania one-night stands, Mr. William Gillette took his revival of "Sherlock Holmes" to Wilmington, Del., where he again said good-bye to the stage. The Stratford-Upon-Avon Festival company of Shakespearean players sailed from London and New Moon" are Hal ax (other da) and will be seen in Stratford for the Shakespeare festivities in April. Since September the players toured from Boston to the West Coast and back to Toronto, where they closed. "Three's a Crowd" and "Girl Crazy" have been reduced to tabloid proportions for presentation in movie houses, and "Follow Thru" are being written to similar size.

SLASH IN PUBLIC COSTS URGED BY COOLIDGE

Limit to U. S. Borrowing Power Shown as All Values Drop, Ex-President Says

PHILADELPHIA, March 23.—The only relief from high taxes is a reduction of public expenditures according to Calvin Coolidge. The former President makes this attack in the current issue of the Saturday Evening Post, says:

"Now that large incomes have greatly diminished something must be done in a hurry to pay the expenses of government.

"While no one questions the credit of the United States, a violent decline in government bonds recently gave warning that there is a limit to the borrowing power of the strongest treasury in the world.

SHOCK TO PUBLIC.

"When people saw the national receipts last year were but $3,317,000,000 and that $736,000,000 of that came from foreign debt payments which are now suspended while the expenses were $4,270,000,000 a cold shiver went down the financial spine of the public.

"Last year a deficit of more than 21 per cent and this year a deficit of about 40 per cent were not pleasant to contemplate.

"That was the immediate pressing and even dangerous situation that confronted the national Treasury. Of course we were a long ways from being unable to meet our obligations, but we were in urgent need of more revenue to pay current expenses. Our situation is aggravated by a great shrinkage in all values, so that there remains little if any surplus out of which increased taxes can be paid.

NEW EXPENSES ARISE.

"We may wonder why this is the case when we know that in the past 11 years we have had four permanent reductions and one temporary reduction of federal taxes and by paying off about $8,000,000,000 of the national debt have made a saving of well over $500,000,000 in interest.

"But all the money saved in one place has been expended with some more with it in some other place, so that the total cost of the federal government for the last fiscal year was considerably in excess of what it was eight or nine years ago.

"It is this expansion in the area of governmental activities with the accompanying expansion of expense that is a large factor in the present Treasury difficulties."

Barber Discovers $10,200 Treasure In Old Home

TONAWANDA, Pa., March 23 (AP).—Thomas Fitzgerald, who for many years has cut hair at 75 cents a head, said today that a fortune in currency, totaling $10,200 in bills of large denomination, was found secreted in a wall of the house in which his mother, Mrs. Ellen Fitzgerald, died March 15 at the age of 86.

A search of the house was planned today by Fitzgerald and his brother, Michael, of Buffalo, to see if any more money was hidden there.

Mrs. Fitzgerald, a widow, lived alone in the house at 96 Niagara street. She was a native of Ireland and came to this country when a girl. She was married to Patrick Fitzgerald, a contractor, who died about 30 years ago. Mrs. Fitzgerald was a member of St. Joseph's Church.

Thomas Fitzgerald, who is unmarried, said he found the money in the walls of the house while making repairs. He said he found $5,000 in bills of large denomination in one wall and $5,200 in another.

GAS RATE PACT DEBATE FAILS

No compromise agreement regarding gas rates was reached yesterday following a hearing before Examiner W. E. Best, of the Public Service Commission, which body was asked to approve the purchase of the Tyrone Gas and Water Company by the Peoples Natural Gas Company for $77,500.

In a resolution passed by Tyrone Council it was stipulated that consumers would pay 50 cents a month meter service charge and $1.25 per 1,000 cubic feet for the first 2,000 cubic feet of gas and 60 cents per 1,000 feet for all gas over that amount. Artificial gas is furnished in Tyrone.

Protestants before the commission said that the Peoples Company had asked for the passage of the councilmanic resolution and had agreed to decrease the minimum charge later. However, it is stated a misunderstanding exists. Following a meeting of gas officials and the Tyrone protestants, it was decided to carry the subject back to Tyrone Council for adjustment. The gas company claims that extension of the gas lines from Altoona to Tyrone prompts the high minimum rate asked.

Pet Dog Executed To Go to Grave Near Mistress

SYRACUSE, N. Y., March 23. —(AP.)— Mrs. Barbara Jones and her dog, Shep, who were the closest of companions for 11 years, will rest near each other in death.

She instructed an undertaker before her death recently to chloroform the dog as soon as she passed on and to bury him as near his mistress' grave as the law permits, for which she provided $100 in her will. Shep was ordered executed last night. Mrs. Jones said:

"I don't think I will be here long, and I want to make sure about Shep. I want us to be as close as possible—in death. I couldn't rest in my grave unless I was sure he was safe from harm."

CITY TO GIVE AID THROUGH PRIVATE AGENCIES

POLITICS

Pinchot State Tour Begins Tuesday

By MARK SHIELDS

Gov. Pinchot will launch his state tour in behalf of the independent slate for state offices in Pittsburgh next Tuesday.

Mr. Shields

The Governor, together with Gen. Smedley Butler, his candidate for the Senate, and Ralph E. Flinn, of Allegheny County, his candidate for Auditor General, will attend a dinner in Pittsburgh Tuesday at which the independent campaign will be initiated.

It will be a rival spectacle to the reception held by the Regulars Monday. Independents of Pittsburgh, Allegheny County and the western end of the state will be invited — and will be present.

Unless present plans miscarry, the Governor will start out Wednesday morning on a tour of western counties, with Butler as his companion. The well-known radio wagon, the advance ballyhoo of the Pinchot gubernatorial campaign of 1930, will be pressed into service. Traveling ahead of the Governor and the former Marine, it will advertise to the crossroads that the big show is coming.

This western tour will be merely a prelude. Later the Governor will campaign the northern-tier counties, the central part of the state and the northeast. It is expected he will give less attention than usual to Philadelphia, despite the fact that the eastern city will be Butler headquarters.

Finally the Governor has come to the conclusion that his campaigns have been won in the west and the interior counties and that there are only so many votes for him and his friends in Philadelphia, no matter how much or how little the activity there.

McGovern Wing Attorney Ousts Coyne Chairman

The split between the Governor and Senator James Coyne has not received the full and enthusiastic support of all members of the Governor's family, it is reliably understood. But the break is there.

Howard Neely, Coyne chairman of the Fourth Ward and a special deputy attorney general in the inheritance tax division of the Register of Wills office, has been displaced by Edward O. Spotts, a young attorney identified with the McGovern wing of the Independent party.

Neely received official announcement today of his removal. In a letter from Attorney General William A. Schnader, Neely was told that "for reasons with which you are familiar" his services would be dispensed with. The "reasons" are Senator Coyne, of course, and the political split he has engineered with the Governor.

Despite the belief in some quarters in Allegheny County that McGovern and Coyne were friendly, it is known that Coyne forced the break with the Governor and did so because he believed he was not being generously dealt with by the chairman of the Board of County Commissioners.

It develops that Coyne, while victorious in the election of Maj. E. Lowry Humes as a member of the Board of Registration Commissioners, was not consulted about Humes' successor, and that this rankled. Coyne is reported to be entirely satisfied with his new situation, and the Governor is not looking forward with pleasure to the next legislative session, when he feels certain he will lose the support in the lower house furnished him by the Allegheny County leader.

Expectation is that the Republican state committee will meet in Philadelphia, May 14, to organize and elect a state chairman. Unless the Pinchot forces gain control, which seems improbable, that chairman will be Gen. Edward Martin, succeeding himself.

* * *

Special Session Forecast May 2

This date may mean some political fireworks, as it is forecast that a special session of the Legislature will be called about May 2. Gov. Pinchot is keeping his own counsel on this subject, but wiseacres about the state, convinced that a session is inevitable, are selecting that date. Intimations that the session might be called during the present primary have been dropped, though the preliminaries to the session will be decided before April 26.

Unless there is complete harmony on a legislative program, the session would not be completed before the meeting of the state committee. The session would play its part in the struggle between the Pinchot and Regular forces looking toward committee organization.

A session call would be preceded by intimations from Pittsburgh and Philadelphia that relief legislation is needed, and should be considered in an atmosphere of public welfare rather than politics. It is a good trick, if it can be done.

However, the prediction is here ventured that another special session will not be so forthright in its suggestions for tax increase as was the last. There is a growing belief that necessary appropriations should be provided through a bond issue, and to insure the passage of a bond issue all elements of the Republican party must agree, as not only are two passages through the Legislature required, but the proposal must be ratified by a vote of the people.

Mark Shields will talk on politics over WCAE at 6 o'clock tonight.

BILL TO CURB TAG 'FIXING' APPROVED

Passage Expected Monday; High Fines Slashed After Protests of Herron, Soost

Drafted to eliminate the evils of tag "fixing," the Better Traffic Committee's codified traffic ordinance stood approved today by the Council Committee on Public Safety after its introduction by Councilman Robert Garland.

Final action on the measure will be taken at the regular meeting next Monday.

The "fixing" feature is eliminated, according to provisions of the ordinance, by placing the distribution of tags for parking violations in the hands of the Controller.

Under the present system, in force for several years, tags were distributed by the Police Bureau. More than 200,000 were "lost" or "fixed" by politicians during 1931, figures revealed.

Under the Controller's supervision monthly reports would be made to Council and the Mayor. Attempts to "fix" tags would be exposed. The Traffic Committee's measure is drafted on the Hoover plan, which is in force in more than 100 cities and towns throughout the nation.

VOTE UNANIMOUS

With all nine members present, the Councilmanic vote was unanimous.

President John S. Herron, however, took exception to what he thought were too stringent penalties for violations and at his suggestion the fines were reduced in many cases from $10 to $5.

The amendments passed were these:

Parking where entirely prohibited—Fine reduced from $4, $5 and $10, for first, second and third offenses to $1, $2 and $3.

Parking more than 30 minutes between 2 a. m. and 6 a. m.—Reduced to $1, $2 and $3, from $3, $5 and $10.

Failure to obey instructions of traffic officers—Reduced to $1, $2 and $3, from $3, $5 and $10.

Council also ordered included in the measure provision to make illegal the backing of trucks on sidewalks at loading zones.

When the ordinance was introduced by Councilman Garland, Councilman Harry Little requested postponement until former Traffic Magistrate William J. Soost, now a member of the body, was "given a hearing to familiarize himself with its provisions."

FINES REDUCED

Councilman P. J. McArdle said:

"We usually give the public hearings. It is unusual to give one to a Councilman."

Soost then declared:

"It isn't fair to pass this legislation with such stiff fines. Many tags reported 'fixed' or 'lost' are given out-of-town violators. We have no jurisdiction on these violators and cannot force them to appear for a hearing. I'll vote for the bill if the fines are reduced."

Controller James P. Kerr said today he would take immediate steps to prepare for issuing future tag allotments.

Members of the Better Traffic Committee appeared pleased that the ordinance had been adopted tentatively, and expressed hope that its passage would be completed next Monday.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal. March 22.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Has your town or city investigated this great scheme called "block-aid" that they have in New York City?

Will Rogers

Each person with a job that lives in that block is asked to contribute a dime, quarter, or not more than a dollar, per week. Now your block is so organized that each block helps itself. It is practical and it works. Every city, town, and even country townships should organize and use it. You know absolutely where your money is going, it's helping your next door neighbor. That's one trouble with our charities, we are always saving somebody away off, when the fellow next to us ain't eating. Same thing wrong with the missionaries; they will save anybody if he is far enough away, and don't speak our language. This is a time when, I don't care where you live, you can't throw a rock without hitting somebody that needs help worse than you do. Here is a scheme where charity begins at home. Yours, WILL.

SULLIVAN GETS BALLOT PLACE

Patrick Joseph Sullivan, a carpenter, of Station street, East End, opposing Congressman Patrick J. Sullivan's candidacy for renomination, won a temporary victory late yesterday when the Pennsylvania Supreme Court granted a supersedeas for an appeal from Dauphin County, where the East End Sullivan's petitions were thrown out.

As a result, the carpenter's name will be printed on the ballot. Then on April 11 at Philadelphia, the appeal will be argued, and if the Supreme Court upholds the Dauphin County Court it will be necessary to reprint the ballots for the Thirty-second Congressional District with the name of the East End Sullivan omitted.

The Supreme Court stay was granted after an informal hearing Monday the Dauphin County Court refused a motion for a supersedeas after ruling out the petitions of the East End Sullivan in proceedings instituted by Congressman Sullivan more than two weeks ago.

Line Repairman Hurt In Fall From Pole

Charles Pollard, 32, Leechburg road, a lineman for the West Penn Power Company, was in the Citizens' General Hospital at New Kensington today with severe body lacerations and a hand injury when he fell from a pole while repairing a high tension line at Roaring Run, near Appollo yesterday, according to a hospital report.

He was unconscious when found by fellow workmen who rushed him to the office of an Appollo physician, where he was given first aid and taken to the hospital. He regained consciousness several hours later.

'Bugs' Gets Badge To Gallop Aisles At Conventions

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Here's the way the political situation frames up. The Democrats are still paying for their last campaign while the Republicans are way ahead on the next one.

Hoover must stick to his anti-saloonners for they made him what he is today and he hopes they're satisfied.

Cal Coolidge will skip this campaign and stick in a bid for 1936.

Cal is wise to the difference between an administration and an air pocket.

Al Smith tested his strength in the state polls and was eliminated on the one-pound dumbbells.

We'll know more during the conventions. We've just got our stampeding badge entitling us to rush up and down the aisles carrying a banner upside down.

'AUCTION BRIDE' IN CONTEST

CHARLEROI, Pa., March 23 — Her hopes of winning a $10,000 husband shattered, Miss Mary Clowes, 21, pretty New Eagle waitress, turned today to new worlds to conquer. She enrolled in a popularity contest in Monongahela and has offered to work without pay in any one of the many stores offering a free trip to Bermuda.

The marriage market is not so good, her offer to marry for $10,000 to aid her needy parents has brought more than 500 answers—all disappointments.

The last proposal came from a young southern engineer. He wrote four or five letters, finally setting the marriage date. Miss Clowes said:

"Something happened. I lost faith in him, although I never saw him."

Several suitors sent checks for $10,000 or a part of the marriage price. All were returned marked "no funds." However, Miss Clowes said:

"I'll still marry any responsible man who will give me $10,000. I made the offer last October and it still stands."

HOLD TENEBRAE RITES TONIGHT

The combined junior and senior choirs will chant during the Tenebrae services tonight, tomorrow and Friday nights in Epiphany Church, Washington place. Tenebrae, the service of darkness, is observed during Holy Week and exemplifies the darkness of the earth when Christ died on the cross.

At the beginning of the office 13 lighted candles are placed on a triangular candelabrum and at the end of each psalm one is extinguished until only a single candle is left lighted. During the singing of the Benedictus, all lights are extinguished after which a single lighted candle is brought out from where it has been hidden behind the altar. The last candle is left hidden to signify that death could not really obtain dominion over Christ, even though it appeared to do so.

DISTRIBUTION OF $260,000 OUTLINED

Poor Board, Emergency Group Pledge Immediate Action As 2,200 Men Lose Jobs

Late developments in the crisis in administration of relief for 28,000 needy families in Allegheny County are these:

1. City authorities have decided to distribute $260,000 voted for relief, through established agencies.

2. The County Poor Board meeting with the Allegheny County Emergency Association this afternoon pledged immediate action, its course to be determined at a meeting tomorrow, for relief in the county.

3. The Emergency Association's work program in the city will be closed with 2,200 men laid off tonight.

The decision to distribute the new city relief fund with the help of the Emergency Association and the welfare agencies was announced by Mrs. Enoch Rauh, director of the Department of Welfare.

USE DIRECT METHOD

All of the $260,000 granted by Mayor Charles H. Kline and City Council will go directly to the aid of the poor, Mrs. Rauh declared. No one will be added to the city payroll. The work will be supervised by a committee which includes Mrs. Rauh, chairman; Frank R. Phillips, A. K. Oliver, John F. Casey and Maj. Philip Mathews.

Relief stations will be opened in the downtown, East End, North Side, South Side and West End districts. Requests for food orders will be received there.

Welfare agencies will investigate the merits of each case. Food orders will be handled through requisitions on the Emergency Association. It is hoped to begin the distribution of this relief by Saturday morning, Mrs. Rauh said.

AGENCIES TO ASSIST

Co-operating in the distribution will be the American Red Cross, the Family Welfare Association, the Catholic Charities, the Jewish Welfare Association, the Lutheran Inner Mission, the Salvation Army and the Association for the Improvement of the Poor.

Members of the Poor Board, meeting with Emergency Association officials today, were asked to provide $260,000 for direct relief work in the county. The money would care for 10 weeks' demands, association officials said.

Maj. J. Clyde Miller, chairman of the board, promised that definite action to aid the situation

BLEAK HOUSE REFLECTS J. V. THOMPSON DEATH SHADOWS

Former Bright Scene Suffers in Illness Of Aged Master

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., March 23 — Another spring has come to the palatial estate of J. V. Thompson, one-time millionaire coal king, but it is winter in the old man's heart.

Stricken suddenly ill about two weeks ago, old "J. V." as friends and neighbors affectionately call him, hovers between life and death in the old home which once was the show-place of these parts.

Like the master, the house and grounds seem to have been stricken with some wasting illness. Where trim lawns rolled away into clumps of beautiful shrubbery and exotic garden plots, now grows a tangle of underbrush and weeds.

GAYETY GONE

The house itself appears to be suffering. Once gay on its lofty hilltop site, it seems to have slumped into some unexplained lethargy. Its wide, rambling porch, where merry feet skipped the happy hours, sounds hollowly to an occasional footstep of some member of the hushed household. Bleak windows look out on the tangle of bush and weed almost hiding from view the conservatory, fallen entirely into decay.

J. V. THOMPSON'S SKELETON CONSERVATORY, WASTING AWAY . . . . NEARBY LIES THE MASTER, WASTED AND NEAR DEATH

Under the skeleton of the conservatory dome a few scrawny hens, scratch, and cackle when disturbed. A few nearby hen houses, rain-streaked, are their home. The chickens and a couple of scrawny-looking dogs are the only livestock on the place.

"J. V." is not alone in this tumbledown palace, though. A trained nurse is with him constantly. His wife, too, is at his side day and night.

Through it all—his days of wealth and his days of need—there is another, or rather, two others. The butler, Pasqualli Pallini, staunch Italian, and his wife, have been steadfast in their service to the former millionaire for 34 years.

SERVANTS STEADFAST

There was a day when Pasqualli ruled over the gay household in bright colored livery as the head butler. His wife, young in the service, supervised the kitchen and between them they catered to the expensive tastes and whims of the Thompson household.

That has all changed now. Pasqualli no longer has his livery. His wife is still in the kitchen, but she cooks more for herself and her husband and young daughter than for the master.

Pasqualli has other duties, too. He is chauffeur, caretaker, gardener for what gardening is necessary to cut paths through the weeds and keeper of the henhouses. His two old dogs follow him about the place and help him keep strangers at their distance.

Operators Favor Coal Bill, Hold Miners Face Vagrancy

WASHINGTON, March 23 — (AP) — Dollar a day wages in some of the Western Pennsylvania coal fields were reported before a Senate mining subcommittee yesterday as a succession of mine operators urged government regulation as the only salvation for the bituminous industry.

Charles F. Hosford, of Butler, Pa., president of the Butler Consolidated Coal Company, in reply to a question from Senator Davis (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, said:

"I have been told of instances where coal is loaded as low as a dollar a day for the loader."

Senator Davis exclaimed:

"Why, we used to pay convicts working in the coal mines a dollar a day. Don't you think that's a disgraceful way to conduct business?"

Hosford replied he was "fully in accord" with the efforts of the Senator to remedy the situation.

He proposed a measure providing for federal supervision but for less active government regulation than is called for in the Davis-Kelly bill now under consideration.

A letter from Gov. Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, indorsing the bill, was read. Pinchot suggested, however, that provision for arbitrating labor disputes be written into the measure.

Howard W. Showalter, president of the Continental Coal Company, said that if "prompt action" toward government regulation is not taken "the coal industry will be a complete failure and thousands of men employed by it will be turned into vagrants."

Marshall John H. Jones, Pittsburgh, favored the bill on condition it be amended to provide that employes must [illegible] agree for collective bargai[illegible] would be taken at the board's regular meeting in Woodville tomorrow morning.

PRIVATE GROUPS WILL HANDLE CITY RELIEF

Miller said he did not know whether money would be raised by a bond issue or through borrowing on future taxes.

The borrowing debt power is limited to $1,980,000, with only $1,300,000 standing against it at the present time. Hall W. McIntosh, president of the board, said he does not favor a bond issue for direct relief, which he terms

CLERKS RETAINED

The city's program comes to a close today with 2,200 men the last of the city labor crews will stop work. The only workers on the Emergency Association payroll, in the city, who are being retained are 164 clerks most of whom are with welfare organizations.

The Emergency Association work program has been in operation since Feb. 1, 1931. In the county the workers have been transferred to county payrolls to work under the $500,000 appropriation by Commissioners which will give them work approximately nine more weeks.

The abandonment of the work program in the city leaves eight sewer projects partly finished, some with trenches which must be barricaded and guarded. Materials to complete the projects have been ordered in many cases.

$75,000 NEEDED

Chief City Engineer Charles M. Reppert estimated $75,000 would complete the most necessary work. A decision on this will be a matter for City Council, he said.

The charity-building agencies included in the Welfare Fund have been asked to cut their programs to a minimum, to provide more money for the groups providing direct relief, according to A. K. Oliver, president of the Welfare Fund. Preservation of these organizations, however, is vital to the welfare of the community, he declared.

Harris Makes Appeal In Family Aid Drive

In a stirring appeal to the citizens of Allegheny County to assist 150,000 hungry and needy persons, Senator Frank J. Harris last night over radio station WCAE described the present crisis in relief funds.

Federal, state and municipal money is insufficient to meet the needs, Senator Harris declared. Upon people who are in comfortable circumstances rests the responsibility of relieving the distress, he asserted.

STARVATION LOOMS

After praising the Allegheny County Emergency Association for giving a definite statement of the needs, Senator Harris said:

"Within a few weeks, possibly days, more than 150,000 human beings will begin to starve. That is not an exaggerated statement. It is a plain exposition of facts arrived at by definite and accurate figures gathered by reputable agencies and based on scientific investigation."

State legislation will be slow to afford relief which will be inadequate after it is in operation, Senator Harris declared. "The Talbot bill, although it may be upheld by the courts, will provide money only in installments over a long period of time, he said. None of the money will be available soon, in his opinion.

Regarding federal relief, he said:

"I believe we can say definitely we are not likely to receive any aid from the federal government in the very near future."

ASKS HELP IN DRIVE

Present indications are, he said, that no special session of the state Legislature will be called to meet the situation, and that local governments are utterly unable to cope with conditions.

Pleading for help in the family-help-family campaign which begins officially April 4, Senator Harris said:

"Are we, the citizens of this rich and powerful County of Allegheny, going to sit down to well-stocked tables three times a day and lay ourselves down to sleep each night in warm, soft beds, while 150,000 men, women and little children slowly starve to death in unheated homes? I don't believe the people of Allegheny County are like that."

APPEALS FOR VOLUNTEERS

In closing, Senator Harris appealed for volunteers to gather funds. He asked that all accept their share of responsibility.

The Harris plan seeks to provide $100 each to care for 25,000 families for three months, providing each family with $33.33 a month to meet the necessities of life.

Tomorrow night an "all star guard" of workers, headed by Taylor Alderdice, will meet and plan a campaign for large subscriptions to care for from 50 to 1,000 families. Smaller subscriptions will also be sought and individuals will be allowed to unite in supporting one family.

COMPARING 1932, 1865 FOOD PRICES

MRS. S. W. BERRY AND HER 1863 NEWSPAPER PRINTED ON THE BACK OF WALL PAPER

With food prices lower than they have been in a decade, Mrs. S. W. Berry, of 236 North Bellefield avenue, was amazed, the other day, to see in some old papers given her by her mother, a record of food prices during the Civil War far in excess of any during the World War.

Relatives of Mrs. Berry, who was the only woman who received a doctor of philosophy degree at University of Pittsburgh last June, were in Vicksburg during Grant's siege, in 1863, she said. Mrs. Berry has a copy of the Vicksburg Citizen which she plans to give to Carnegie Museum.

Printed on the plain side of a piece of flowered wallpaper, its editor scores local profiteers who were charging $4 and $5 a pound for flour, $3 a pound for sugar, $10 a gallon for molasses and $10 a bushel for corn. The paper was evidently set up July 2 and was probably ready for press when the fighting reached a climax. Its last paragraph, dated July 4, 1863, was evidently added by a victorious Northerner. It read:

"Two days bring about great changes. The banner of the Union floats over Vicksburg. Gen. Grant has dined in Vicksburg, and he did bring his dinner with him. The Citizen for the last time appears on wallpaper. No more will it eulogize the luxury of mule meat and fricasseed kitten—urge Southern warriors to such diet nevermore. This is the last wallpaper Citizen and is, excepting this note, from the types as we found them. It will be valuable hereafter as a curiosity."

RUM EXTORTION CASE NEAR JURY

Justice of the Peace John G. Metz, of Kennedy Township, and Constable Edward Brubach, of Ben Avon, may hear the jury's verdict late today in the case of conspiracy and extortion, for which they have been on trial all week in Criminal Court before Visiting Judge R. R. Lewis, of Potter County.

Metz was on the witness stand nearly all of yesterday, denying the eight charges of the state that he had assessed amounts varying from $20 to $75 against various small storekeepers who had been raided on liquor charges by Brubaugh, and had not held proper hearings and made proper returns of the money to the county.

Metz said he kept proper loose leaf records of the cases. His answer as to why he had changed the charges from liquor violations to that of conducting disorderly houses was that two informations had been made, and when the raiders did not find liquor, the other charge had been used. The law requires that liquor violators be held for court.

PENNY SAVINGS BAN REFUSED FOR PUPILS

Board of Education Defers Action on Request for 10-Cent Deposit Limit

A penny is better to save than nothing, the Board of Education decided at its meeting yesterday when it deferred action until next year on the request of the Educational Thrift Service that the minimum acceptable deposit in the school savings system be set at 10 cents.

Dr. Ben G. Graham advised against increasing the present minimum deposit of 1 cent.

The board voted to have weekly tests made of the water in the 23 swimming pools in the Pittsburgh school system.

Because of the prevalence of undernourishment among school children in certain districts of the city, free milk will be served at several elementary schools each Saturday, as a result of the board's action. Dr. Graham said that there was a real need for the aid among two or three hundred students in the poorer districts.

The school heads also will aid relief work by granting use of school ground to unemployed persons for garden purposes this summer.

To further education outside of schools, the board voted to lend educational films and projection machines to organizations interested in the movement.

NOW RIP FAT OFF 6 OR 7 POUNDS A WEEK

A Discovery Recently Brought Here from England That Enables the Average Fat Person to Lose 6 or More Pounds Weekly . . . Without Starvation or One Extra Step of Exercise

It seems that the British have found a way to rip off excess fat that's the dream of every 'too-fat person. That is, to rip it off without starving, without tiring exercise.

Under an extraordinarily simple and pleasant regimen discovered there, the average fat person loses as much as six to ten pounds weekly, yet suffers no pangs of hunger, no aching muscles, no weakness or depression. Returning travelers from Europe talked so much about it, that it has now been brought to this country. Anyone can follow it; so if you want to get thin, here's your chance.

Eat, Sleep, Drink and Grow Thin, Doing Only This

All the method involves is a glass of water before breakfast—to clear the intestines and tone the system—and a few minor changes in your diet.

Here is what you do: Tear this article out and save it, so you won't forget.

Before Breakfast: Drink an ordinary tumbler full of cool water to which you've added a teaspoon of effervescent salt. (Get the brand named "Andrews" at any drug store.) This to eliminate the usual curse of fat people: accumulated poisons and bloat. Also to cut the moisture weight of your body—sometimes as much as three pounds in one day.

At Meals: Cut out ONLY fat meats. Eat your usual quantity of lean meats and ADD a double-supply of green vegetables... spinach, cabbage, fresh peas, lettuce, etc. Then for dessert, shift from pastry and pies to FRESH FRUIT. The more you eat of these the better. They're super-nourishing vitamin foods.

Drink, too, if you like them, sauerkraut juice, tomato juice or orange juice "cocktails" before lunch and supper. Eat fresh fruit, too, before bed if you like to eat before retiring.

That's all you do. No wonder England and all of Europe is cheering this discovery. You lose weight day by day, week by week... usually from six or seven pounds weekly to even as much as ten pounds, and feel amazingly more alert and active while you are. Doctors of world knowledge widely endorse this way. The salt tones and clears the system. The vitamin foods take the place of those that build weight and fat, and thus fat goes like magic.

Embark on the Great Adventure of getting thin today. Ask your doctor about this if you wish to be doubly sure this is the simplest, safest way to lose embarrassing bulk. You can get Andrews Effervescent Salt at any drug store for a few cents.

Where Does She Get Her "Pep?"

SHE doesn't look seventy. Nor feel that old. The woman who stimulates her organs can have energy that women half her age will envy.

At middle-age your vital organs begin to slow down. You may not be sick, simply sluggish. But why endure a condition of half-health when there's a stimulant that will stir a stagnant system to new life and energy in a week's time?

This remarkable stimulant is perfectly harmless. It is, in fact, a family doctor's prescription. So, if you're tired of trying every patent medicine that comes along, tell the druggist you want a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin. Take a bit of this delicious syrup every day or so, until you know by the way you feel that your lazy liver is again active, and your bowels are pouch free.

Men, women, and children who are run-down, who tire easily, get bilious spells or have frequent headaches, are soon straightened out when they get this prescriptional preparation of pure pepsin, active senna, and fresh laxative herbs. (Syrup pepsin is all the help the bowels need, and you do not form the very bad habit of always taking cathartics.)

Keep a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin in the house, and take a stimulating spoonful every now and then. It is all that a great many people ever take to keep strong and vigorous and absolutely free from constipation.

TECH CAST TO PRESENT OPERETTA

'Gondoliers' Will Be Staged for Student Aid Fund

"The Gondoliers," Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, will be presented by the departments of music and drama of Carnegie Institute of Technology, April 6 and 7, in Carnegie Music Hall. The receipts will be used for a student aid fund in the departments.

The lyrics from "The Gondoliers" have become familiar through the radio, but the operetta itself is not well known in America. In England it is considered the most popular of the works of Gilbert and Sullivan. It was first produced by Richard D'Oyly Carte's company in the Savoy Theater, London, in 1889, and was introduced in America the following year.

GUNMAN TAKES $16, SCORNS $30

A gunman held up 10 men in Clark's Coffee Shop, 414 Third avenue, across the street from the postoffice, obtained $16 in paper money and scorned $30 in change early today.

Eight customers and George Nicolson, the manager, were sitting at a counter when the robber entered. Pointing an automatic pistol at Jim Ott, a waiter, he shouted:

"Give me the paper dough in the cash register. Be quick about it, too!"

Then he ordered the patrons to remain still. J. R. McCormick, 228 Shiloh street, one of the customers, reached into his coat pocket to give the thug what change he had. The thug, believing McCormick to be reaching for a revolver, said:

"Another move like that and I will kill you."

Ott gave the thief the paper money and he fled into the street. Nicolson pursued the bandit through Cherry way, where several special delivery messengers joined the chase.

DOGS DIE IN FIRE WRECKING HOME

Two valuable dogs were burned to death when fire early this morning ruined the interior of the newly built three-story brick dwelling of Joseph Hollander, Church Hill road, near the Edgewood Country Club, Wilkins Township. The damage amounted to several thousand dollars.

Mr. Hollander, president of the Hollander Drug Company, Rankin, and well known in Allegheny County politics, discovered the fire when he returned from a theater with his wife and daughter.

Chief James J. Watt, of the Franklin Volunteer Fire Company, Wilkins Township, called the Wilkinsburg Fire Department to help fight the blaze.

WOMEN TO HEAR TALK ON MUSIC

Since spring is officially here, and spring always means weddings, and if not weddings, engagements, and so I'm telling you of a most recent engagement.

Mrs. George Milton Davis, of Beechwood boulevard, announces the betrothal of her daughter, Anna Mae, to Harold W. Dauber, son of Frederick L. Dauber, of Penn Hills.

Miss Davis is a graduate of the Thurston School, and her fiance of the University of Illinois. A fall wedding is being planned.

SILK ORGANDIE TO BE FAVORED FOR SUMMER INFORMAL DANCE

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

PARIS, March 23.—Organize your wardrobe to include at least one frock of silk organdie for this material promises to be a huge favorite for informal dance wear this spring and summer. Of course the organdie frock is ever a youthful frock and an care should be taken unless the model is for sweet 16, that all frills are omitted. The softly tailored note should be sustained and then anyone can wear an organdie frock successfully. Its crisp charm is attractive, as is its demure look. The new pastel shades are most attractive and lend themselves to such materials as organdie or mousseline de soie. Flowers are back again on the best frocks and are used as trimming and color contrast most effectively. What be wear in the Spring is a question of importance to all of us. Fashion is still very important for it strikes the correct balance between the tailored model and the very soft clinging silhouette. And such models will be smart and wearable right through the season.

* * *

PARIS TRIUMPH is a hint of the pleasant days ahead of us in the form of a most attractive and youthful model of silk mousseline. It is by Vera Borea who has scored a great success as a newcomer to the dress designers' field. The color of the frock is pale pink with an accent of vivid yellow provided by the corsage bouquet of primroses. Beneath the transparent skirt a wide yellow ribbon falls from the bodice and emerges for a few inches at the skirt edge. A flattering young silhouette is obtained by the use of a boned bodice topping the voluminous skirt and finished with a shoulder strap. The collar, bolero and flattering skirt are all bordered by rows of three-quarter inch tucks.

No woman ever had a lovelier figure

But her skin, Tragic!

By Julia Foster ★

She seemed all that's lovely. A figure of exquisite grace. But when I saw her face, gone was the whole illusion! Inexcusable! A few words of expert advice would have kept her complexion worthy of so divine a form.

That's what's tragic! And think . . . you can be spared an unsightly skin. It's all so easy. The advice of beauty experts is given you here. Follow it, to keep your skin soft, supple, your complexion youthful.

Simply, twice a day, apply to face and throat a generous lather of Palmolive Soap and warm water. Work well into pores with your hands. Then rinse thoroughly with warm water, and finish with a cold rinse. Hot water should never touch your face. After this, in the morning, your make-up. At night, if your skin is dry, follow with oil or tissue cream.

Notice that, for this foundation cleansing, more than 20,000 beauty experts have specified Palmolive. There must be a reason for that. There is! It is given you in full in the panel at the right, headed: "Beauty In a Test Tube." Please read it.

Bathe nervousness away!

Here's a marvelous way to relax, to rest, soothe weary nerves. And it's also a beauty treatment given me by an expert.

Shave up a whole cake of Palmolive—it's very inexpensive, you know. Then melt it by boiling in 4 cups of water and pour the solution into your tub. Step in, and for a minute or two, just relax, luxuriate, rest. Then massage every inch of your body, every pore, with rich lather from another cake of Palmolive. When you get out, you'll find fatigue, nervousness, gone. You'll find your skin softer, smoother, thanks to this olive and palm oil care. You'll find yourself ready to get up—go places—do things!

And don't forget that twice-a-day facial treatment with Palmolive. That's most important for keeping your complexion soft, supple, youthful. Try it for ten days, and see.

BEAUTY IN A TEST TUBE

Olive oil for the complexion! Always known to keep skin soft, supple, youthful.

But can you get enough olive oil in soap?* How much, actually, goes into Palmolive? Here is the exact amount of olive oil that goes into every ten-cent cake of Palmolive—in this test tube at the right. To this generous olive oil content can be directly traced Palmolive's great complexion benefits. It is the only large-selling soap made of vegetable oils exclusively. The only one using olive oil as a base. Other ingredients are simply oils from palm trees necessary to produce a richer, creamier, more workable lather. The color is the natural green of olive and palm oils—no artificial coloring.

More than 20,000 of the world's beauty experts have for years urged Palmolive Soap in preference to all others. Heed their advice!

Keep that Schoolgirl Complexion

PHAR LAP TO MEET TWENTY GRAND

THIS COUNTRY'S FIRST international horse race in eight years is likely to grow out of Phar Lap's victory in the Agua Caliente Handicap. There is hardly a doubt that before the summer racing season is ended, the turf world will be steamed up over a match between Australia's wonder horse and Mrs. Payne Whitney's Twenty Grand, the sensation of 1931 as a 3-year-old.

Mrs. Payne Whitney

Of course, Phar Lap will compete in other races on American tracks. He is entered for several sweepstakes at Arlington Park, in Chicago, including the Stars and Stripes Handicap, Arlington Handicap and Arlington Cup, and though he is not eligible for such big eastern stakes as the Jockey Club Gold Cup and the Saratoga Cup, it is assured that special sweepstakes will be arranged for him at both Belmont and Saratoga. But sooner or later a match between the Red Terror and Twenty Grand will develop to be the high spot of the 1932 season and bring out perhaps the largest crowd that ever witnessed a horse race in America. It's a natural.

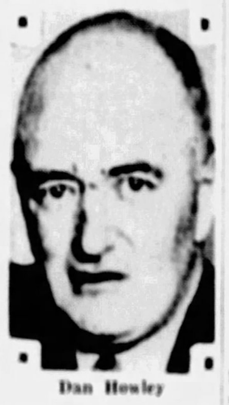
AFTER SEEING THE Australian champion run and getting a chance to inspect him at close range, racing men pronounce him a perfect horse. There isn't a flaw in his make-up, they say. He is a big fellow, standing 16.3 hands and weighing well above 1,000 pounds, long-coupled, rangy, long-striding and quick to get going.

Henry King says Phar Lap is not what Americans call a speed horse, but more like an eight-day clock, starting off at a steady, even pace, and maintaining it until he is stopped. In trials, all his quarters are reeled off in approximately 25 seconds, which fits him for any competition.

EVEN IF HE should fail to equal Sun Beau's world record for winnings, Phar Lap at least is secure in second place, as the next four horses on the list are no longer running and his nearest rival is Mate, in seventh place.

Revised figures on Phar Lap made his winnings prior to Sunday's race $282,250 instead of $268,675, so that his total is now $332,250, or $44,494 behind Sun Beau's $376,744. Gallant Fox is third with $328,165, followed by Zev, $313,639; Isinglass, $291,275; Donovan, $277,215; Mate, $273,425; Blue Larkspur, $272,070; Twenty Grand, $259,925; Display, $256,526; Victorian, $253,425, and Exterminator, $252,596.

IT WASN'T BECAUSE Len Koenecke had made good in the Giants' left field beyond doubt, so much as that Ethan Allen is an improved player this spring, that John McGraw felt it would be safe to let Fred Leach go to the Braves. As a matter of fact, McGraw is not yet sure of Koenecke. The latter had to withdraw from practice again this week on account of a recurrence of his illness. As he has been sick most of the time since he reported, Koenecke still is considerable of a question mark, and McGraw doesn't know yet whether the recruit is worth the $75,000 paid for him.



Dan Howley

IN HIS EVERY move toward making over the Cincinnati club, Manager Dan Howley is guided by what he thinks the late Miller Huggins would have done in a similar situation to get a winning combination.

"I can't forget how Hug finished sixth in 1925, plugged up his infield with a couple of rookies in Tony Lazzeri and Mark Koenig, and went right to work and won three straight pennants," Howley said. "That was one of the greatest feats of all time and ranks Huggins above John McGraw and Connie Mack as a manager.

"THAT'S WHY I'M putting a new ball club in Cincinnati this year," Howley continued. "It's why I made that big trade with Brooklyn recently, in which Stripp, Cuccinello and Sukeforth were turned over to the Dodgers.

"We ran last all season in 1931, so regardless of what Herman, Gilbert and Lombardi do or fail to do for us, we can't finish any lower. I've changed my club because I believe Hug would have done the same thing. I'm willing to stand or fall on the results."

A REUNION OF the basketball old-timers of this district is proposed by Johnny Freund and the suggestion, no doubt, will bring a hearty response. An affair of this kind was held annually at Egg Harbor, N. J., for eastern veterans by the late Bill Morgenweck, and since his death it has been carried on by his brother, Pop, this spring's gathering being scheduled for April 9. Freund thinks the numerous floor stars of the old days hereabouts would be glad to get together in the same manner.

JOHNNY IS TALKING it over with Joe Leithead, Dough Burry and other former local celebrities. He has in mind, among other features for the occasion, the bringing here of Harry Hough, old South Side Central League star, as an honor guest.

Hough, rated by many as the greatest player of all time, would give the affair a lot of extra color, Freund thinks. Johnny would like to get the views of all the old-timers in the district on the proposed reunion, and requests that they call him at Everglade 4297 between 5 and 8 p. m.

IT IS A FACT little realized, but altogether worthy of note, that Grant Siverd, dean of local tennisers, is about to enter upon his ninth campaign as volunteer coach of the Duquesne University racquet crew. The veteran P. A. A. star, now well beyond the three-score mark in years, is one of the real sport marvels of the district, for not only does he still play a strong game of tennis, but he is a better-than-average golfer and one of the cleverest, cagiest squash racqueters in Western Pennsylvania.

Grant Siverd

Siverd has never accepted a penny for his efforts in behalf of the Red and Blue. He cordially consented to look after the net interests of the Dukes when tennis was inaugurated as a varsity sport on the hill in 1924, and right now he outranks in length of service all other athletic mentors at the institution.

SIVERD THIS SPRING will face the difficult task of replacing Capt. Andy Smeaton, No. 1 ace, whose 1930-31 record of victories rated among the truly outstanding performances in local collegiate net history. Smeaton was graduated last June, but is back at Duquesne as a law student. Though ineligible for further competition, he retains keen interest in the destinies of the team that he led for two seasons, and he will boss the sizable freshman squad that will assemble on the Bluff immediately after the Easter vacation. In addition to Smeaton, Jimmy Campbell, Ray Boland and Al Berkowitz were 1931 Duke net graduates, which means that only Capt. Regis Bullion, Frank Casey, Joe O'Neill and Samson remain as foundation for the outfit that must tangle with such sturdy foes as Pitt, Carnegie Tech, Geneva, Grove City, Temple, Waynesburg and W. & J. between the latter part of April and the end of May.

INTERNATIONAL LOOP MAY ADD CHICAGO

By CARL W. SHATTO

The working agreement which the local International Hockey League team has with the Blackhawks, Chicago's entry in the National League, will be discarded after another season.

Officials of the Chicago club recently announced plans for the construction of a $2,000,000 hockey arena there. They also announced that a franchise in another minor hockey league would be obtained for Chicago. In addition to National League (major league) hockey, Chicago now has representation in the American League, a minor circuit. When the leaders of the Hawks mentioned "another minor league" they were referring to the International League, now a seven-club organization which would welcome Chicago into the fold.

Pittsburgh became a "farm" for the Hawks last fall when the major leaguers came here to do their training. The arrangement has not been particularly pleasing to Coach Charley Reid despite the fact that the working agreement resulted in such able icemen as Frank Ingram, Lou Holmes, Earl Miller and Doc Romnes coming here. Reid's dissatisfaction was due to the fact that the Hawks refused to permit any one of the four to remain here for any length of time. Pat Shea and Norman Locking are other Hawks who were here virtually the entire season.

Chicago's new arena probably will be available for the 1933-34 campaign, and when International League hockey is introduced there the Yellow Jackets will be left to shift for themselves. The Hawks will control the new International loop entry, and, of course, will make it their farm.

Coach Reid and other Jacket officials are preparing for the emergency by attempting to make outright purchases of new talent. In the event they are sufficiently successful in achieving this aim, they may sever their connections with the Chicago club next fall.

The local skaters will conclude their 1931-32 campaign at Duquesne Garden Saturday night when the Cleveland Indians will appear here. The game originally was scheduled for Friday night.

VOTEL, GUEST ROLL 1159

DETROIT, March 23.—Pittsburgh district pinsters are due for several juicy cuts of the American Bowling Congress tournament prize melon, for late yesterday several healthy wallops were given the sticks.

Most prominent was the 667 and 606 meted out in the singles by C. Ridgley and C. Shott, of Huntington, W. Va. The latter, incidentally, was the only man able to break among the high 10 leaders, he getting 1859 for tenth place in the all-events. Shott and Ridgley also paired for a good 1165 in the doubles.

For East Pittsburgh, Harry Votel and Harry Guest landed in the money with their 1159, and Guest came back to cut in the singles by getting 631. A. Bennett, of his team, also was there with a good 623. The scores:

BRADDOCK WINS W. P. I. A. L. FLOOR CROWN

KREILING STARS AGAINST KEN HIGH IN FINAL

By JULIUS LEVIN

Fourteen long years of steady plugging during which time they saw the hopes for the W. P. I. A. L. basketball championship shattered in less than nine times finally brought their reward to Braddock High School's courageous passers in the Pitt Stadium pavilion last night when the Section VIII titleholders swept aside the last barrier in their path to ascend the scholastic throne.

Flashing the same dazzling form that established it as one of the outstanding teams in the tournament, Braddock defeated a determined New Kensington High quintet, champion of Section I, in the final battle of the W. P. I. A. L. eliminations, 26-21, thus assuring itself of a place in the state playoffs as the standard-bearer of District 7.

FIFTH NEXT FOE

The victory qualifies Braddock to engage Fifth Avenue High, representative of District 8, in an inter-district contest in the Pitt Stadium pavilion Saturday night. Fifth Avenue already has scored a triumph in the inter-district games, having conquered Huntingdon High, District 6 representative, by a 34-27 count.

Elmer Pinkie Kreiling, brilliant forward of the Braddock quintet whose work throughout the tournament placed him among immortals of W. P. I. A. L. basketball players of other years, once more proved the outstanding player of his team's well-deserved triumph over New Kensington.

Kreiling played a beautiful floor game, shooting field goals counted on eight of his four chances from the foul line and but for an unfortunate mistake by the official scorekeeper might have added to his point total. Throughout, save for the official scorekeeper, who had the Braddock forward with only two personal fouls instead of five and the shifty star finishing the contest from the game in the fourth quarter, the first time he had been removed on fouls in three years.

MARINO BOTTLED

The middle-period scoring duel between Kreiling and Louis Marino, New Kensington scoring ace, failed to materialize as the powerful defense built by Ham Hudson smothered virtually every effort of the Valley forward to score from the floor. Marino, the high-scoring star of the series prior to last night's game, was held to two field goals.

Braddock led from the outset and never was headed by the Glockmen. The heated Valley passers could approach the Section VIII champions was at the close of the second half when they pulled up to within one point of the league's two-with titleholders the rest period finding Braddock on the long end of an 11-10 count.

LEAD FROM START

Braddock led at the end of the first period, 8-4, the half found it in front, 11-10, it continued to lead at the end of the third-quarter mark, 20-14, after which the contest by scoring nine points to its opponent's seven.

Braddock connected from the floor 11 times while New Kensington shot eight field goals. In fouls Braddock made seven out of 11 while New Kensington made only five out of 15 attempts.

The contest drew 5,000 the largest crowd of the series. The lineup:

Braddock		New Kensington

STOCK MARKET DRIFTS ABOUT AIMLESSLY

List Declines Early in Day, Recovers and Then Eases Some After Noon

NEW YORK, March 23.—(AP.)—The stock market drifted aimlessly today, absorbing occasional trickles of selling without difficulty.

The mid week business statistics failed to provide any fresh sustinence for the market, and uncertainties surrounding the fate of the tax measure in Congress tended to keep traders cautious.

The list sagged a point or so in the early dealings, recovered during the morning, then eased off slightly after midday. Leaders ranged fractionally lower by early afternoon. Some special selling appeared in Procter and Gamble, which dropped about 4 points to a new low in the early dealings, then recoved. Early losses of a point or so in United States Steel, American Telephone and American Can were recovered, then these issues eased off fractionally. Trading was again extremely sluggish.

Wall street is now awaiting with keen interest the intensive automobile sales campaigns planned for early April. Any pickup in sales should bring a belated upturn in steel production. Iron Age estimated ingot output as unchanged at 25 per cent of capacity, but said that an upturn seemed to be promised within the next fortnight.

Electric power production for last week was off 8.6 per cent from last year. The weekly freight car loading figures, showing a gain of 16,000 cars over the previous week, were not regarded as particularly encouraging, since the gain was accounted for by a special movement of coal. Miscellaneous freight and less than carload lots, chief barometers of general business activety, actually showed large declines.

MARCH WHEAT DIPS UNDER 50

CHICAGO, March 23.—Sharp new downturns in Liverpool wheat quotations today led to fresh early setbacks of grain values here. Liverpool cables reported confidence of buyers extinguished, and there was general liquidation here, with stop-loss orders uncovered. Opening ⅝-1⅛ lower, Chicago wheat futures afterward declined further, with March dropping below 50 cents a bushel. Corn started ½-¾ off and later held near the initial range.

Semi-demoralization prevailed for a time in the Chicago wheat pit today, and the market steadied itself only after prices had tumbled to below 50 cents a bushel for March contracts. This was a disquieting approach to the all-time low record of 48¾ cents on cash wheat in Chicago.

Rallies that ensude from early bottom prices were in the main ascribed to profit-taking purchases for traders who had previously been sellers.

The following quotations on the Chicago Board of Trade are reported by A. E. Masten & Co.:

Reserve Bank Report Reflects Shifting of Federal Funds

The consolidated condition report of member banks in the Reserve System reflected chiefly the changes brought about by the heavy shifting incident to last week's government operations. Total loans and investments rose by $283,000,000, reflecting the heavy increase in investments of $331,000,000, of which $312,000,000 was accounted for by expansion of the government portfolio. Loans were reduced by $48,000,000 in the aggregate, due chiefly to reduction of $35,000,000 in "other" borrowings. Advances on securities were shown to have yielded to a new minimum, a further drop of $13,000,000. Government deposits rose sharply as expected, but an increase of $22,000,000 in net demand deposits was more than offset by a shrinkage of $27,000,000 in time deposits. Banks however were able to cut their indebtedness to the Reserve by $68,000,000.

If report current in financial circles is well based, investment trusts apparently have decided upon their course of action in the future so far as lending of stocks in their portfolios is concerned. Directors of one such institution, according to gossip going the rounds, have adopted a resolution prohibiting the lending of stocks in the future. Bear traders, it is widely held, are inclined to be increasingly nervous as enforcement of New York Stock Exchange ruling draws near, but thus far the tape can hardly be said to indicate any widespread feeling of apprehension on the part of the short interest.

Conservative observers do not favor purchasing on the rallies. Instead, they advise longs to reduce positions during upturns. Some of them are recommending scale buying at around 5 per cent, which technique was mentioned heretofore, but la[illegible] "stops" somewhat below [illegible] lows to protect accounts from a sharp break.

[illegible] preferred [illegible] new low record [illegible] it has been reported that some of the selling in this stock recently was due to stop orders being reached. It is learned that the supply which had been causing the lower levels came as a result of the liquidation of an estate. Interests in the company maintain that the stock is well-protected in the balance sheet and insist there is no prospect of an early reduction or omission in the dividend.

Interests who accumulated Lorillard some weeks ago have been maintaining their long positions and in some instances they have added to their holdings as the stock eased with the general market. The buying has come through the same houses which were active on the long side prior to the dividend action several months ago. It is contended that the stock has been selling at a reasonable price in relation to prospects of earnings and the return on the stock.

It is stated in some circles that quiet long-pull buying has been coming into Commercial Credit at times in the past week or two. This demand is believed to be based on growing belief that the company is in position to benefit materially from any substantial increase in installment buying which must come with the next period of general trade betterment.

Banks Continue Improved Showing

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(INS)—Materially improved banking conditions which first became evident in February have been maintained throughout March. During the month so far only four national banks have failed, the treasury reported today.

Only six national banks have closed their doors since February 17, a record since the prosperity period. More than 10 banks a day failed during January while the rate of failures declined during the first half of February.

Electric Power Production Down

NEW YORK, March 23.—Electric power output for the week ended March 19 was 1,837,747,000 kilowatt hours, a slight drop from the preceding week and a decrease of 8.6 per cent from the corresponding week last year. For the past three weeks reported production has shown a fairly constant decrease of slightly more than 8 per cent from last year.

Estimates Wheat Condition at 82.1

CHICAGO, March 23.—E. H. Miller, of James E. Bennett & Co., estimates winter wheat condition as of March 17 at 82.1. April 1 conditions last year was 88.8 and the 10-year average 80.9. Preliminary reports indicate about 7 per cent abandonment.

Fox Film Names Operating Chief

NEW YORK, March 23.—Sidney R. Kent has been elected executive vice president in charge of operations of Fox Film Corporation. Leonard A. Woolams has been elected vice president.

STEEL AWAITS APRIL RISE

NEW YORK, March 23.—Iron Age tomorrow will say:

Despite the failure of steel business to improve during March, normally the month of peak operations, the steel industry is still looking forward to a seasonal rise of some proportions and present indications are that it may come in April. Based on definite business that seems to be just around the corner, steel companies expect that the turn will come within the next two weeks.

Expectations of betterment are predicated on the fact that the Ford Motor Company must soon release large orders if it is to attain a volume production schedule early in April.

Railroad buying may open up slightly upon completion of new financing through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Efforts to strengthen prices are complicated at seaboard points on account of growing foreign competition. Bars from Europe are being laid down in New York in increasing quantities at 1.20c. to 1.50c a pound, while foreign steel is being freely offered to buyers on the Pacific Coast at 1.50c a pound, delivered.

Pending the complete establishment of some of the higher prices now quoted, the Iron Age finished steel composite price is unchanged at 2.044c a pound. Raw materials are lower, the composite price for pig iron now being $14.43 and that for steel scrap is $8.21. The pig iron composite is the lowest since September, 1915, while that for steel scrap breaks all records.

NEW TAX RULE HITS TRADERS

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(INS)—Traders in stocks and bonds who buy and sell for their own account must dispose of their securities in order to establish a loss for federal income tax purposes, the Internal Revenue Bureau ruled today.

On the other hand, recognized dealers who buy and sell for the account of their customers may carry securities on their inventory books and write off the depreciation of values according to market quotations at the end of the taxing period.

Many large traders in the New York stock market represented to the Internal Revenue Bureau that they were entitled to classification as dealers and hence to carry stocks and bonds on their books and write off the depreciation loss in value.

However it was determined that where the trader has no clientele, patrons or customers he cannot qualify as a dealer in securities.

The decision probably will mean the avoidance of a loss of several million dollars for the government.

CAR LOADINGS GAIN 16,042

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP)—Revenue freight car loadings for the week ended [illegible] were reported by the American Railway Association today as 573,481 cars—the highest for any one week so far this year.

This was an increase of 16,042 cars over the preceding week, but a decrease of 158,099 below the same week a year ago.

Coal loading for the week totaled 141,450 cars, an increase of 46,083 over the preceding week and 959 above the corresponding week in 1931.

Milnor Attends Grain Conference

PARIS, March 23.—George S. Milnor, chairman of the Farmers National Grain Corporation, began conferences with grain importers. Previously he consulted Ambassador Walter E. Edge and Payette Allport, commercial attache of the embassy, about French market prospects.

He was understood to have estimated that France will import 15,000,000 to 20,000,000 bushels in the next four months, although French brokers placed the maximum at 12,000,000 bushels.

Pennsy Loadings Show Sharp Rise

Pennsylvania Railroad system handled 94,929 revenue cars during the week ended March 19, compared with 89,257 in the previous week and 117,343 in the corresponding 1931 period.

Loadings from January 1 totaled 1,074,096 cars, against 1,351,533 a year previous.

General Electric Backlog Declines

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., March 23.—(AP)—Unfilled orders of the General Electric Company, at the end of 1931, totaled $49,308,000, against $56,062,000 at the end of 1930, a decrease of 12 per cent, the annual pamphlet report of the company discloses.

Atlantic Refining Raises Motor Gas

Atlantic Refining Company has advanced the tank car price of United States motor gasoline to 6½ cents a gallon at Providence, Portland, Boston, Bayonne, Philadelphia, Norfolk, Brunswick and Jacksonville.

Bond Club to Hold Annual Elections

The Bond Club of Pittsburgh will hold its annual meeting at a luncheon in the Blue Room of the William Penn Hotel tomorrow. Officers for the coming year will be elected.

American Smelting Cuts Price of Lead

NEW YORK, March 23.—The American Smelting and Refining Company has reduced the price of lead 15 points to 3 cents a pound.

WESTINGHOUSE 1ST QUARTER LOSS CUT

Deficit Will Not Equal Those of First and Last Three Months Last Year

NEW YORK, March 23.—By reduction in payroll expense and exercise of every possible economy, Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company so far this year has been able to mitigate somewhat the severity of the decline in business. Operations have continued in the red to a substantial degree, however, reflecting the fact that there has been no improvement in incoming business this year from the low rate prevailing in December last year.

With some days still to go before the end of the quarter, it is still impossible to estimate the size of the loss to be shown for the first three months. It will, however, be under the loss of approximately $2,700,000 incurred in the last three months of 1931. The decline in this latter period was augmented by the usual year-end inventory write-downs in the jobbing line, by exchange losses, and by other factors inevitably affecting the results at the close of the fiscal period.

GAIN OVER 1931

The first quarter of 1932 will also show some improvement over the first quarter of 1931, when Westinghouse had a loss of $2,885,945 on net sales billed amounting to $27,837,160. In the succeeding two quarters of 1931, operations were conducted at a profit, but in the last quarter business dropped off so rapidly that a loss almost equaling that of the first quarter was shown.

Although Westinghouse in 1931 had a loss on sales of $4,537,980, the cash income from sales was greater than the actual cash cost of sales. Sales totaled $115,393,082 and cost of sales was $119,931,062, but this latter figure included $5,173,914 for depreciation. In 1930 depreciation reserve amounted to $6,603,680.

LOSS ANTICIPATED

After providing for foreign exchange losses, for decline in value of securities, for revaluation of investments in companies not previously consolidated, and other items, and for the payment of dividends amounting to $6,906,549, surplus was reduced to $79,050,324 from $95,373,912 at the end of 1931. Through this action, the company says, it has provided for every actual or probable loss of which the management has knowledge and it expresses the hope that some of the losses will not become actualities.

NEW YORK, March 23.—Cotton opened easy today at a decline of 5 to 10 points on southern and foreign selling. March sold at 6.53 cents.

The market showed very little rallying power, however, and was barely steady at the end of the first half hour with May selling around 6.52 cents and October 6.91 cents, or about 8 to 10 points net lower.

Liquidation and scattered selling continued later in the morning, but in comparatively small lots. Prices held around the 6.70 level for July contracts. At midday prices were steady at net declines of about 7 to 10 points on active months. There was a little last moment liquidation in March which sold off to 6.42, but trading in that position ended at midday.

Glass Companies Make Costly Adjustments to Meet Present Needs

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

MAKERS OF FLAT glass have passed through a year of exceptionally trying conditions. The plate and window glass industries have been faced with difficult problems for the past seven years, but 1931 marked the worst period in the history of the business.

The immediate outlook is not particularly encouraging. The window glass makers are dependent almost entirely on building activity. The plate glass makers sell their product to the automobile manufacturers as well as to builders. The outlook for both these types of activity is uncertain.

But several factors have been working to the benefit of the glass industry. Bankruptcies and consolidations have materially reduced the number of organizations competing. Most of the companies still in business have gone through the painful process of scrapping a large share of their older equipment and of installing new equipment to make glass by processes suited to modern needs.

Large losses were reported by most of the glass companies for 1931, but some of the organizations have made changes in process and have instituted economies which will enable them to show profits in 1932 if prices do not decline and if the volume of business is equal to 1931. Real prosperity for the glass industry will be dependent on an improvement in general business, and some of the surviving companies will be in a position to report attractive profits when conditions brighten.

* * *

Many Factors Add to Troubles of Glass

MANY INFLUENCES have been responsible for the difficulties facing the flat glass industry in recent years. First of all, foreign competition upset the price structure. The end of the war was followed by the rebuilding of glass factories in Belgium and other European countries. Aided by cheap labor these organizations invaded the American market and started price cuts in 1925 which later reduced quotations to less than half their original figures.

To meet this competition and to provide for changing market conditions the industry was forced to abandon most of its old manufacturing processes and to make large expenditures for experimentation and finally for plant modernization.

The full scope of this change is not generally realized. The plate glass makers have scrapped practically all their old equipment. They have devised machinery to make an entirely different type of glass than was required in the past and they have found methods of making cheaper glass. The change in window glass has not been so complete but some companies have found it necessary to adopt entirely new processes.

* * *

Distinction Between Glass Types Important

A KNOWLEDGE of the difference between the various types of glass is important to an understanding of the troubles of the industry. In the past there was a definite line between plate and window glass.

In years past window glass was made by blowing a lump of molten material into a cylinder. The ends were cut off the cylinder. It was split, reheated and flattened. It was the glass commonly used for residential glazing and it usually had flaws in it.

Plate glass was a heavier product which was cast in large flat sheets and then polished. This material did not have the flaws of window glass but it was expensive. Its principal use was for the glazing of store fronts.

The changes which have upset this industry will be discussed in future articles in this column.

EMBERS OF LOVE -:- Story of a Pretty Girl in Whom Burned The Flame of a Great Emotion -:- By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Baby Is Sick When Lily Lou Gets First Chance to Sing in Opera

CHAPTER XLII

Uncle Bob was dead. He had died in his little house up on Love Mountain.

Mary wrote how he had died. "He died," she wrote, "and he made a will and everything he had is to go to you. I suppose it amounts to about $1,000. No doubt you can use it, but it seems funny, leaving it all to you. After all, you are not the only one in the family."

Lily Lou [illegible]. She [illegible] brown [illegible] in [illegible] had [illegible] those [illegible] thought [illegible] She [illegible] his [illegible] caring [illegible] thought [illegible] hurt [illegible] made [illegible] her was [illegible] girl [illegible] pass [illegible] hair [illegible] who [illegible] knee [illegible] Dolls [illegible] songs [illegible] with [illegible] slices [illegible] in the [illegible].

Synopsis

Lily Lou Lansing has ambitions to become an opera singer. She meets Kentfield Sargent, son of a wealthy shipper. Ken is also interested in Peggy Sage, prominent society girl. Ken admits his love for Lily Lou and they go away and are married. When Lily Lou first sees Ken's mother she is told that Ken was not old enough to get married. Anxious days follow. Then Lily Lou is told by Ken's father that the marriage has been annulled. He gives her $500 and a ticket to New York. In New York she has a hard time getting a job and her money runs low. From a home town paper she reads that Ken has become engaged to Peggy. She learns that she is to become a mother. She gets a job as accompanist with Dwight Gwin, voice teacher. Nita Nahlman, famous opera singer, hears Lily Lou sing and offers to take her to Europe to study. Later Lily Lou explains her circumstances to the singer, expecting the offer to be withdrawn. She is invited to take the trip regardless and decides to do so. They go to England first and then to France. They go to Vienna, where Lily Lou becomes ill. She becomes the mother of a baby boy. When Lily Lou recuperates they return to Paris.

Now Go On

NEW AMBITION

She [illegible] could do something [illegible] wished that there were some way to tell him [illegible] was that he was going [illegible] to see him [illegible] me she was in Woodland. She should have [illegible].

And then came to her that he would [illegible] cared. He never knew whether he was remembered [illegible]. He just went his way with his dogs and his horse [illegible] stop to listen to a [illegible] song or watch a [illegible] cigarette [illegible] never rushed.

And in the [illegible] everything it was the one purpose to help her achieve her goal.

She brushed a hand across her wet eyes. Stood up. There would be no more [illegible] with the Bunches, no more telling herself that she wasn't strong enough to work. Strong. She was strong as a horse. She'd work as she had never worked before. She'd make it up to the old man who was asleep under the trees on Love Mountain.

Madame Nahlman's three performances of Carmen at the Opera Comique were to virtually close the season. To Lily Lou's overwhelming delight she was allowed to join the chorus, and understudy for Micaela. The real Micaela was a beautiful young French girl, protegee of one of the conductors. Nahlman disliked the girl exceedingly, and engaged in several wordy battles in the effort to get the part for her protegee, Lily Lou.

URGED BY NAHLMAN

There was no reason, as Nahlman pointed out, why Lily Lou couldn't sing it. She knew it perfectly, her voice was more than adequate. "My God, you've got to start some time! Why, I myself sang the very role of Micaela when I had no real training at all. All I had was the voice, the temperament. I won't! I wasn't afraid of anything. And you—you tremble when I put you in the chorus!"

"It's just the thought of it."

"Get over the thought of it. You're ready to do Gilda or Rosina this minute, or Marguerite—Why do you suppose I took you up? To nurse you along for 10 years? You've got to jump these things when they come. This won't come because Blumenthal is busy, will sing Micaela in spite of the devil. But don't look so scared at the thought of it!"

Lily Lou gulped. She was never a match for Nahlman. She couldn't explain. Nahlman wouldn't understand. Nahlman never felt humble and frightened. She just felt sure of herself, glad of the chance to show how great she was. She didn't feel that the music was great, and the role great and that she was just somebody hoping to interpret the role.

But some artists did. Tony Schiarilli did. He told her so. He said he didn't think you had to be sure of yourself that way. They'd often talked about it, back in New York. But you couldn't talk that way to Nahlman. She just didn't understand. Thought you lacked nerve . . .

BABY BECOMES SICK

Did she? Lily Lou walked the floor, worrying. Suppose after all that had been done for her, after all her training, she'd be too scared to sign a note?

The first night she could have kissed the French girl, she was so glad to see her appear in the wings, ready to go on and sing the part. Nahlman didn't say a word about it, she was so wrapped up in her own performance. She was magnificent, flushed with triumph. Fat and old and blowsy as she looked in her dressing room—a little ridiculous even, in her laced in bodice and roses in her too curly wig, there was nothing ridiculous about her performance. She was Carmen, audacious, compelling, still alluring. No wonder they acclaimed her, no wonder she was called great!

The second night Lily Lou lost her fear. She wouldn't wish the young French girl any hard luck, but if she got the chance . . . well, Nahlman wouldn't have to be ashamed of her. Her voice was better, much better, than the other girls, and she was certainly as good looking.

And the third night . . . the third night she'd have almost traded her soul for the chance, except that the Buchen was sick.

"Measles," said the bonne.

"Nonsense!" said Leontine, the second maid. "That child has no more measles than I have the stomach ache!"

"A lot you know about it!" said the bonne, "you who know nothing of children!"

GETS BIG CHANCE

"What, I? Know nothing of children? I who bore four, and have three living, and one with the good God, and you, a single woman, supposed at least not to have had any children, stand there and tell me, me, who bore four and—"

"Nevertheless he has measles."

"Of a certainty, he has measles, put in Albert the butler, who had arrived to quell the disturbance, and stayed to take a hand in it, "and vinegar, good vinegar, diluted—"

"Then send for the doctor," Lily Lou cried above the din. "Let the doctor decide. What is a doctor for? Albert, you call him, and Leontine—"

"Sh-h! up all of you," Madame Nahlman shouted. "Give him to me. He's all right. It's just a rash. Leontine you stop that bellowing. Shut up . . . oh, my God, my voice. Why do you let me shout? Lily, the least you can do is to watch me. You know my temperament. Put that child down. Get my wrap and come at its time—"

"I'll slip over a little later—" Lily Lou said, after the doctor gets here. Anyway, it won't matter if I don't go. I wish Albert would hurry."

He's answering the door. Don't fuss so, Lily. You make me nervous, and when I am nervous on a night like this—"

"It is an old one from the Opera Comique, an old man, Mesdames," Albert said, returning. "He says Monsieur Blumenthal sends his regards, and Mlle. Delere has broken her ankle and can not go on. So if Mme. Lansing—"

"God be praised. Quick, Lily Leontine, take the child—"

Mme. Nahlman was slipping into her wrap—"Come, Lily!"

Lily Lou was rooted to the spot. She looked at the wailing child, at the red-faced, indignant Leontine, the angry nursemaid.

"I hate to leave him . . . The regular understudy could—"

"If you fail me, I'm through with you. Are you a singer or aren't you? Make up your mind—and quick—we'll both be late."

Lily Lou bent her head, kissed the baby's soft little neck. Nahlman was right, of course. It was her chance. The baby would be well cared for . . . Albert would go for the doctor . . .

Susanne Coin put a wrap over her shoulders.

The three women went down the thickly carpeted stairs. Lily Lou heard the Buchen's whimpering cry as the door closed behind them.

"If you fail me, I'll be through with you," said Mme. Nahlman.

HEART OF A WIFE

By ADELE GARRISON

Discovering Victim Not Dead, He Is Taken to Farmhouse

Bill straightened his shoulders as if he were receiving an accolade of knighthood when Harry Underwood, reminding him that he had been on the track team at school, ensured him to show what he could do in a sprint. Without waiting for any further instructions from the big man who was holding the slight figure of the almost lifeless Chinese in his arms, Bill set off down the path with the easy, effortless stride of the practiced runner. Both Dicky and Mr. Underwood let their eyes rest on him for a second, and then nodded to each other as if satisfied.

"He'll do," Mr. Underwood said.

"Yes, nice style," Dicky agreed. "How can I best help you there, old man?"

"If you'll get in the back seat and be ready to steady me as I climb in. I'll be able to manage him all right," Mr. Underwood replied.

Although I did not turn my head, for I had my hands on the wheel, ready to start the moment Mr. Underwood should give the word, I could see in the mirror with what deftness and tenderness these veterans of the World War, used to such horrible injuries that this must be only an incident, lifted the inert form and settled it again against Mr. Underwood's chest.

"All right, Lady Fair," Mr. Underwood said softly, although we all knew that the man in his arms could hear nothing. "You can beat it now. I know you will have to jolt him somewhat, but dodge all the holes you can."

Never have I driven with such a feeling of tenseness. At every uneven spot of ground I found my whole body bracing with the clutch and brake to keep the car steady, but was conscious that no matter what my care the wounded body must be jolted cruelly. I did not dare to turn my head, but I spoke softly to Hank at my side.

"Ask them if they think he is conscious and can feel this jolting."

He repeated my message and Harry Underwood answered in tones distinct enough for me to hear.

"No, he doesn't hear or feel a thing, poor devil."

"That being the case"—through Dicky's drawl I read a tenseness of nerves akin to that of my own—"suppose you let us get the lowdown on this. What happened, when, where, how and why?"

"All right, Hank, suppose you chant the litany of the good reporter, Mr. Underwood replied. "Begin at the beginning, son."

As this sudden to loquacity Hank was tongue-tied, and Dicky prompted him.

"Where were you when you first saw this man, Hank?"

"Just at the end of that row in the cornfield," Hank said hesitatingly, "but we'd seen something before."

"What?" Dicky prompted as the boy stopped much as if the mechanism which wound his speech had run down.

"We found a place over in the woodlot where the grass was all flattened down and," Hank lowered his voice fearfully, "there was something on it we thought was blood."

"Yes," Dicky said encouragingly, as the boy stopped again, "I suppose you looked around to see if there were any tracks leading away from that place?"

"Yep!" Hank brightened perceptibly. "That's just what we did do, but whoever did it hadn't dragged the man. They must have carried him, for we couldn't find any place where there was a mark of anything dragged and they must have been like the Indians in their way of covering up their own tracks, for we only found one or two footsteps."

"Then how did you find the body?"

"We guessed of course that what they carried away was the Chinese fellow you wanted to find and said was in such danger from the other fellows. So we reckoned that they wouldn't carry him very far and we sort of planned a square that took in the part of the woodland where we found the trampled grass and the cornfield."

"You kids ought to have an extra Boy Scout medal or something or other," Dicky said admiringly. "Don't bother to tell us any more. We know that Bill sent you and stayed himself until Uncle Harry got there, but I do want to know this. At any time did you see or hear anything that made you think those other Chinese were watching you?"

BABY FRETFUL, RESTLESS?

Look to this cause—

Does your baby have nights when he fusses, tosses and seems unable to go quickly, quietly to sleep? Look for one common cause, doctors say. A constipated condition.

To get rid quickly of accumulated wastes which cause restlessness and discomfort, nothing is better than genuine time-proven Castoria.

Castoria, you know, is made specially for children's delicate needs. It is a pure vegetable preparation; contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics of any kind.

It is mild and gentle enough to relieve a young infant's colic pains, yet is an effective regulator for children of school age.

When your baby is upset and unable to sleep, or has a little cold or fever, it is a wise precaution to give him the gentle but sure regulative help of Castoria. With regulation come relaxed comfort and restful sleep.

Keep a bottle always on hand. Children like the taste of real Castoria—which always has the name, Chas. H. Fletcher, on the package.

FRISBY EXPLAINS CAMERA POSE

MANCHURIA MANOR — My dear, dear Mrs. Frisby, how could you write a letter like that? Have you no faith in your own Congressman at Large Horace Walpole Frisby-wisby? The flashlight picture sent to you—by enemies of my campaign for better relationships between American and Manchurian homes, I might say in passing—was taken by unknown parties. I would like to get my hands on those parties. I wish to congratulate them. They couldn't have caught a better likeness of the tableau posed by me and the young lady known as Miss Chapei. The tableau is called "Peace," and is going to be put on at the Japanese-Sino Wheat and Sandwich Club next Friday night. Now don't let me hear another peep out of you on this subject, Mrs. Frisby—complete trust is the only thing that can establish complete trust between us two. "Tag-Fixing" to Go Council's Favorable Action on the Codified Traffic Ordinance Is a Victory for Public Opinion.

Council, sitting as a committee, has approved unanimously the codified traffic ordinance, with its provision for the abolition of the vicious practice of "tag-fixing."

Passage of the ordinance is a foregone conclusion.

This is a victory for public opinion.

The ordinance, indorsed by many civic and trade bodies, was originally introduced two years ago. Council was reluctant to pass it, apparently because the privilege of granting traffic violators immunity from prosecution was highly valued for its vote-getting possibilities. But the pressure of public opinion, never relaxing, has finally compelled surrender.

The prosecution of violators of the traffic laws will add to the city's revenues and make the streets safer.

But the best reason for rejoicing over the abolition of "tag-fixing" is because the system is immoral and unjust.

Maintaining Morale

Settlement Houses, Community Centers and Similar Organizations Must Not Be Sacrificed.

The budget of the Welfare Fund carries appropriations totaling $475,444 for the support of 17 agencies of social service which are not engaged in direct poor relief, but are "character building" in their nature. These are the organizations that conduct settlement houses, community centers, boys' and girls' clubs and the like.

The suggestion has apparently been made that these activities should be abandoned and the money required for their support devoted to the purchase of food, clothing and shelter for the destitute.

The Sun-Telegraph agrees with A. K. Oliver, president of the Welfare Fund, that this would be a mistake.

These agencies are doing indispensable work in maintaining morale in a very trying situation. They are providing wholesome recreation and useful occupation for a multitude of grown-ups and children who, but for this valuable service, would be loitering on the streets, brooding over their troubles, and getting into mischief.

Oliver points out that the appropriations for these agencies constitute only 7.9 per cent of the total Welfare Fund budget, that the appropriations were pared to the bone to begin with, and that in many cases the agencies are operating on a smaller sum than was allotted to them.

Morale and morals must be maintained. Abandonment of the community centers and of the work being done for boys and girls in the slums would almost certainly be followed by an increase in crime and delinquency.

Putting Them on Record

The Fair Rate Association Is Doing Well in Inquiring About Legislative Candidates' Stand.

Even in these days of one man cars, and with wages and the prices of materials lower than they have been in years, the Pittsburgh Railways Company is losing money, Charles A. Finley, chairman of the Traction Conference Board, reports. It may be necessary, he hints, to abandon some of its lines and to raise fares.

Finley's report is just one of a number of things that point to the desirability of a thorough study by the Legislature of the public utilities, their rates and policies, and the manner in which they are regulated.

It is gratifying to note that the Pennsylvania Fair Rate Association plans to send questionnaires to all candidates for the Legislature, asking their views on these matters.

The question of fair rates promises to be one of the most important subjects that will come up at the next regular session, and it is appropriate that the candidates should be put on record.

A Vile Racket

Credentials Should Be Demanded of Strangers Seeking Donations for Charity.

In connection with a Police Court case involving solicitation of money from newsboys, G. H. Dennison, chief of the Better Business Bureau, made the assertion that "charity racketeers" took $1,000,000 from Pittsburghers last year and pocketed the entire amount.

Dennison should know. It is his business to investigate fraud and imposture.

Could there be a more despicable racket than to steal money intended for the relief of the hungry and destitute?

There seems to be no limit to the greed and heartlessness of some persons. The prevalence of sorrow and suffering is their opportunity to prey on the benevolent.

It is scarcely necessary to suggest that no mercy should be shown "charity racketeers" by the courts.

But there is apparently need for the suggestion that credentials should be demanded of strangers asking contributions for charity.

Are You Registered?

Every Citizen Should Qualify to Vote in the Primary Election Next Month.

With the primary election only about a month distant, public interest has not as yet risen to a high pitch. Yet there are important offices to be filled, important policies to be decided, and it is to be hoped there will be a heavy outpouring of citizens to the polls.

This is registration day in Pittsburgh. The registrars sat at all polling places this morning to enroll voters who failed to register last year, and will sit again from 4 to 10 p. m. Applicants for registration are required to show a receipt for county taxes paid within the last two years.

Every citizen should be sure to qualify for the privilege of voting on April 26. Voting is not only a privilege, but also a duty.

Marry-Go-Round

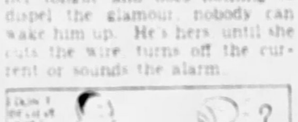
By HELEN ROWLAND

"Putting Love on the Spot"

The only person in the world who can kill a man's love for a woman is the woman herself.

* * *

Women may "warn him against her"; men may point out her defects and vamps may try to steal him from her. But as long as she keeps her head, her temper and her tongue and does nothing to dispel the glamour, nobody can wake him up. He's hers until she cuts the wire, turns off the current or sounds the alarm.



But "putting love on the spot" is woman's long suit—her metier! And there are a thousand ways in which she can manage to wreck a romance.

* * *

There's jealousy, for instance, the fatal temptation to assert her claims over a man. Just one flash of it in a woman's eye—and it's all over but the funeral. A woman's jealousy fills a man with conceit at the same time that it deflates the woman's value in his eyes.

* * *

Another weapon with which many a woman cuts her own throat is her tongue. She just loves to TELL a man things—everything! She can't be content to remain a hazy dream in his mind. She has to tell him "all ABOUT" herself—her life, her temperament, her reducing diet, and sometimes even the source of her complexion and where she buys her clothes.

* * *

Many a woman has TALKED herself right out of a man's imagination—and thereby ceased to be his "dream-girl" and become just an ordinary human being.

Then, there's the feminine faculty for starting a scrap. One scrap will do more to kill romance than the breaking of all the Ten Commandments. You may kiss-and-make-up, but something between you—the perfect understanding, the entente cordiale—has been snapped and can never be quite the same again.

* * *

And there's the clever woman's temptation to be witty, at a man's expense. Positively fatal! And the silly woman's way of hanging on a man's neck and wailing that he doesn't love her, until she chokes all the enthusiasm out of him.

* * *

Oh, yes, there are a thousand ways of "putting love on the spot!" But, once a woman has landed a man's affections, why can't she keep a cool head, a sweet temper and a pleasant tongue—and let him go ON loving her? Why can't she just be STILL!

Tex Rickard's toga seems to have fallen on the slim shoulders of Jimmy Johnston, known to Fiftiana as "The Boy Bandit." He came from Ireland and began as a "preliminary boy," winding up managing fighters and making matches. He is 56, the father of 11 children, the eldest 33 and the youngest 4. He has the taciturnity of Tex and chews a dry cigar with the same bovine content.

It was Jimmy who once philosophized thus: "I can fool all the people some of the time and some of the people all the time and what time there is left I have a little fun fooling myself."

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

When I was very young, I wanted to be SURE about everything I did.

I wanted to be SURE that I would like a new job before I took it.

I wanted to be SURE that I would be happy in a new place before I moved there.

I wanted to be SURE that a new friend was exactly what I wanted a friend to be before I entered into a friendship.

Above all, I wanted to be sure that the thing I was about to do, whatever it might be, was RIGHT. I didn't want it to be PARTLY right. I wanted it to be so absolutely right, without the slightest tinge of wrong.

For I believed that there was such a thing as 100 per cent goodness—100 per cent happiness. I believed that there were perfect people, perfect jobs, perfect places, perfect deeds; and that if one were wise enough and looked long enough, one could find all this perfection.

All around me I saw multitudes of people who had not found it—people who had chosen the wrong mate, or the wrong work, or had made the wrong decision. But that was obviously their own fault. If only they had been a little more sensible, more patient and self-controlled, then they could have arranged life to their perfect satisfaction. They could have been SURE of happiness.

That is how I believed once—and what a lot of misery it led me into! How surprised and shocked I was when my neat little scheme of things didn't work. How sore at my fellow man—and downright peeved at God! And what angry tears of self-pity I wept over myself as, one after another, my bubbles burst! And of course I blamed everyone but myself, and decided that I was far too good for the coarse and vicious human race, and so abandoned myself to bitterness.

But bitterness is a lonely role, and gradually I began to ask myself a few constructive questions. Was it possible that everybody was "out of step except myself?" Did I really have the only perfect scheme of existence, and had all my friends and acquaintances been dirty double-crossers? That didn't seem possible. And so I began to get a little sense.

I began to see that my own attitude was to blame. It wasn't such a fine and noble attitude as I had thought. It was really a stupid and silly, even a selfish attitude. I had wanted to be SURE of everything, and I had gotten mad and refused to play if the reality fell short of perfection.

BUT THE TRUTH WAS, NO ONE COULD BE SURE OF ANYTHING: AND ONLY A VERY CONCEITED AND IGNORANT PERSON WOULD DEMAND SUCH SURETY.

No person was perfect. No job was perfect. No place was perfect. No program of life was perfect. In everyone and in everything there were qualities and attributes which did not fit my notion of things.

But these things were not necessarily bad things. They were things which were alien to my nature and my desires, but why should I demand that all people and things should conform to my nature and my desires? Shouldn't I, rather, do a little conforming and compromising myself?

Above all, I found that there was no such a thing as a perfect act. The act that was right for me might be absolutely wrong for the other fellow. And even in my best A No. 1 acts there was plenty of concealed cussedness.

And so I no longer ask for surety. I know now that it is impossible, and I realize also that there is something greater in life than "always being sure." It's a far greater thing to live life as a gamble than as a certainty; to never know what will turn up next; to take a chance with your heart and your fortune; feeling that, if you lose this time, there's another chance ahead.

That, to me, is the real human adventure. The other way is the plan of a cushioned cat.

What Do They Mean By Starvation?

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

It is evident that Lloyd George is going to be very annoying to the wise and the good everywhere, but particularly in England. His first speech to his Liberal followers reveals the old genius with undiminished punch and the old capacity for contempt for hypocrisy. He proposes to face and fight the National Government—so-called—and to fight it particularly on the tariff; and he is going after the Liberals who sneaked out of the party for place. Whether one believes in the brilliant Welshman or not, it is impossible to withhold one's admiration for his fighting qualities.

As a matter of fact, the Tories are in possession of the British government. Ramsay MacDonald is Premier, but he has had to surrender on vital principles to the Tories and there are Liberals in the Ministry, but these have had to stultify themselves on practically everything they ever stood for. Mr. Baldwin may not be a spectacular figure as a leader, but his party has MacDonald and the Liberal renegades in the pot.

Lloyd George prefers to think of these Liberals as "immured in the protectionist settlement" but really "wanting to be rescued." The Labor party, under the colorless Henderson, offers no prospect of a live opposition in the Commons. But Lloyd George's speech promises an opposition. His slashing attack on "a sham government" gives us that assurance.

Presidential Primary In North Dakota

The presidential primary in North Dakota surprises no one in the preference shown for Roosevelt over Murray, but it does offer some surprises that cannot be wholly comforting to the administration party. There is significance in the very respectable vote cast for Gov. Murray. He belongs to what the East calls the radical school. From the faroff days when he presided over the convention that framed the almost revolutionary Constitution of Oklahoma, he has been considered a "radical." His recent speeches have been slashing attacks upon the existing system of industry and finance. The vote he received is a sweeping protest.

But there is a more significant phase than that in the result. North Dakota is a Republican state. In previous primaries the highest number of Democratic votes cast was about 13,000. This year as many as 60,000 Democratic votes were recorded. This cannot possibly represent the stay-at-home vote of other years. It means that thousands of Republicans have enlisted under the Democratic banner this year. Senator Nye, a Republican, interprets it as a rebuke to the administration. He says:

"There is a feeling that if the administration under President Hoover had been as energetic in support of farm aid as he has been in support of relief for the international bankers and in support of the big bankers and railroads, he would be getting somewhere instead of running around in a circle."

* * *

Farmers Will Have to Wait Until November

The managers for Mr. Hoover were too wise to subject his popularity to a test in North Dakota. The peculiar primary system there gave them an easy way out, since a candidate can receive every vote cast in the primary and still be refused the delegation by the politicians. The notorious Coxey polled an astonishing Republican vote. Former Senator France won easily—but he will not get the delegation.

This will go to the President—regardless of the enormous increase in Democratic strength and the preference expressed in the primary. The President will not be entered in primaries in purely agricultural states where farmers are eager to vote their resentment of his policies. These will have to wait for their opportunity in November.

8,000,000 Americans Denied Right to Work

Senator Bingham, of Connecticut, who is opposed to the House bill providing an appropriation of $132,000,000 for immediate road building to give employment, has interrogated the Governors of states on the state of unemployment and on whether human beings have died of starvation. On the showing of the replies he reaches the highly optimistic conclusion that not more than 6,000,000 breadwinners have been denied their inalienable right to work and life.

From two states alone, and from Republican Governors, he has it that 2,000,000 are out of work. This does not include New York, which declined to answer on the ground that accurate statistics are not available. New York knows, however, that more than 1,000,000 men are out of work. We have no doubt that there are as many as 8,000,000 Americans who are denied the right to work.

* * *

People Are Starving

More interesting is the wrath and resentment of most of the governors over the question: Is anyone starving in your state? We may be sure that were it true no governor would admit it. We have heard quite enough, perhaps, about "no one starving." People are starving. One day in New York City two men dropped dead in the street and the verdict was starvation. It is true, of course, that no one need actually starve—that is, die for want of enough food to keep body and soul together.

But there is such a thing as slow starvation from insufficient food—and this is especially true of the children. There is not an honest social worker in America who does not know that the undernourishment today of millions of children means slow starvation today—and disease tomorrow. Almost every mail brings statements to this effect from some organization doing the best it can for human misery—on private contributions. For two years the richest nation on the earth has been creating a weakened race for tomorrow. It is sheer nonsense to close our eyes to that ugly fact.

* * *

$1.38 Per Family Per Week

Gov. Pinchot in his reply says that "Philadelphia gives $4.38 per family per week for relief." The family can exist on that amount, but the children cannot possibly get adequate nourishment. There are great numbers of children in America who will die within a few years because of the lack of proper food during the last two years.

But there is only one way to stop this slaughter of childhood, and that is by giving work to the breadwinners of families who are now denied their inalienable right to life and work. The House appropriation of $132,000,000 would help, but would not approach the necessities of the situation. The prosperity loan of five billion would mean something worth while.

But Senator Bingham is shocked at the idea of using $132,000,000 from the Treasury to give men work; while enthusiastically approving the setting aside of $2,000,000,000 for the assistance of banks, railroads and big industries.

Perhaps many of our statesmen are not informed of the conditions or of the feeling among the suffering masses.

Edmund Burke was a great statesman, and he made it his business to talk with ditch diggers and men in the street to keep himself informed on public sentiment. There is an undercurrent of bitterness and cynicism among the masses today that would astonish our leaders in Washington. And nothing contributes more to it than these smug reports that "no one is starving" and that "we can take care of our own."

People are starving and local governmental units are not "taking care of their own"—largely because they can't. Meanwhile the government at Washington is taking care of no one but the bankers, the railroads and the big industries.
